Tariff Measure Is Apt to Furnish Turning Point in His Career

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press

Washington—How long a time does it take to judge whether a president has made good?

This question has arisen as a result of the widespread discussion of and reviews of the first six months of Herbert Hoover's administration. It also involves the all-important point of which matters more—whether a president has made good with congress and the politicians, and particularly the state organizations, or whether he has made good with the country and has back of him a strong public opinion.

Reports from outside of Washington have been uniformly to the effect that in appointments and in efforts to tackle numerous problems, Mr. Hoover has shown himself to be independent-minded, indefatigable and aggressive. Inside of Washington the political view is that Mr. Hoover has not yet faced a real test.

Farm relief legislation was a preliminary skirmish because both parties were more or less committed to legislative action of some kind, and it remains to be seen whether the federal farm act will solve the problems of agriculture or whether there will be a recurrence of agitation from the west in the form of export duties placed on such as Senator Borah of Iowa is already proposing as an alternative to the present law.

SEE TARIFF AS TEST

The general impression is here that the tariff will furnish the first test of Mr. Hoover's political ability, as well as his powers of analysis of what the country wants. It is recalled that it took about a year and a half to break the Taft administration with the famous "Schedule K" and that the Harding administration also started out with the prestige of a successful disarmament conference but began to slip when the president vacillated in the shopmen's strike negotiations.

It was not until the fifth year of the Wilson regime that the turning point politically came, and notwithstanding the achievements such as the federal reserve act, rural credit legislation and a management of the war that was generally considered effective, the reaction set in from the moment the ill-fated plea for a democratic congress was made in the autumn of 1918.

Mr. Hoover's dislike of the house tariff bill was made clear at the White House shortly after the measure passed there has been no sign of what the president would do if a similar measure as proposed by the finance committee came to him for signature. There is already an insubordination arising from the farm bloc which threatens to change the whole tariff measure and it may be that Mr. Hoover may be saved the necessity of making a positive stand, in which case there will be no test of his strength and the decision as to his powers of influencing congress will have to be postponed until another year has passed.

There have been some adverse incidents in the last six months which have to some extent diminished Mr. Hoover's political strength.

BELIEVE SOUTH COOLER

The Dr. Priest incident has probably affected the enthusiasm of some of Mr. Hoover's southern supporters. Organization republicans in northern states who have not liked the president's manner of making appointments are showing signs here and there of disapproval, though on the whole this is not yet a serious matter, because if Mr. Hoover rides high on the crest of public approval the politicians will be compelled to go along with him.

High Cliff Park Bill Is Vetoed By Kohler

5 Measures Are Killed By Governor

Madison—(AP)—Gov. Kohler today announced his veto of five bills, including the High Cliff park and a northern tax benefit measure, and his approval of the bill creating a state purchasing bureau in place of several other offices.

The bureau of purchases bill abolishes the office of superintendent of public property, the printing board, department of engineering and the cement purchasing commission and creates in their place an advisory council, bureau of engineering and the purchases department which will have charge of buying supplies and equipment for all state work.

Gov. Kohler coupled his High Cliff park bill veto with his disapproval of the Northern Lakes park bill, saying that in the previous veto he had pointed out that the conservation commission "has large funds for purchase of forest lands and in some instances can obtain lands suitable for parks which are also adapted for park purposes, thus accomplishing two worthy purposes with a single expenditure. He said also the conservation commission has not recommended purchase of the High Cliff area and reiterated his disapproval of "adding isolated tracts to the state's park system."

SEES BILL UNWISE

The taxation bill would have given municipalities and counties first chance at delinquent tax monies instead of the state. In a lengthy veto message the governor said it seems unwise to further "rearrange the order of payment out of taxes collected so as to subordinate the state tax to school taxes. Should the bill become a law it would give rise to serious administrative problems."

Another veto measure would have allowed counties after adoption of a "comprehensive plan for construction of a system of surfaced highway bonds in anticipation and payable from future allotments from the state. The governor said reference to "a comprehensive plan" which is basic to the bill is indefinite, renders the meaning of the bill uncertain and would involve in doubt the validity of bonds issued under it.

SNOW FALLING IN WESTERN NEBRASKA

Freezing Temperature Also Reported in Minnesota, Dakotas

Omaha—(AP)—Snow, an inch to four inches deep, was falling in western Nebraska today, with temperatures in many places below freezing.

Rain, starting last night, changed to snow this morning and the temperature continued to drop. The snow, the weather bureau here reported, is unusually early, though it breaks no records.

Hay Springs, Nebraska, had the lowest temperature, according to unofficial reports, the mercury there standing at 26 degrees. Four inches of snow had fallen. Sleet was falling at Gordon, Neb., and the mercury was below the freezing point. Three inches of snow fell at Crawford, Neb., and the temperature dropped to 30 degrees. Snow started falling at Valentine, in North Central Nebraska, shortly before noon—the earliest since the government weather station was established there 45 years ago.

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—Temperatures several degrees below freezing and killing frosts were reported today from a score of points in Montana, North and South Dakota. Havre, Mont., had the lowest temperature during the night, 24 above. Lisbon, N. D., and Lemmon, S. D., had 26. Park Rapids registered the lowest in Minnesota with 29.

Rapid City, S. D.—A light fall of snow that melted as it reached the ground showed Black Hills residents their first touch of winter this morning. Light snow or rain was reported generally over the hills, giving some insurance against forest fires feared by forest wardens.

NICE TOWN BUT TOO HIGH HAT, ANALYST SAYS

Wisehaup Finds Much to Condemn but More to Praise in Appleton

Appleton is a nice town, but it is too "high hat," in the opinion of Howard J. Wisehaup, the "Pep Man." He pressed his opinion to between 500 and 600 people at the third of a series of five lectures at Appleton high school Thursday evening. His appearance here is sponsored by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Another thing that impressed him unfavorably was the presence of "too many retired people."

"And when I say retired, I mean just that," he reiterated.

"That the city is inclined to be 'high hat' is not surprising, as this attitude is typical of a college town," he said. "It is an attitude, however, which might well be corrected."

CONSIDER CHARGE AGAINST PRESCOTT

Claim Milwaukee Man Was Influenced by Offer of $5,000 Job

Madison—(AP)—The senate's special committee for the investigation of lobbying activities has before it testimony that Frank L. Prescott, Milwaukee assemblyman, actively opposed repeal of the uniform small loans law because he had been promised a $5,000 job if he could kill the bill.

Such testimony was given by the committee Thursday by Assemblyman D. F. Burnham, Waupaca. Senator H. J. Severson, chairman of the committee, said he did not know what action the committee would take on Burnham's testimony. Severson has introduced a resolution asking that the committee be authorized to continue its investigation after final adjournment of the legislature.

Mr. Prescott declined to comment on Burnham's testimony, when interviewed.

How $841 worth of sausage and packages were fed to assemblymen and senators during the session was related by James T. Dought, Milwaukee, who has been a lobbyist in the Wisconsin legislature for 22 years.

On 15 different mornings, breakfasts were served in a Madison hotel at Mr. Dought's expense to all legislators who wished to attend.

The largest attendance at his breakfast was on May 22 when 47 assemblymen and 14 senators were Dought's guests. After Senator Glenn D. Roberts made a speech in which he said the alum bill was being "sneaked and passed through the legislature," the breakfast attendance slumped.

MOTHER IS HONORED BY CAMPFIRE GIRLS

Omaha—(AP)—Mrs. M. A. Hall, of Sherman, Tex., the mother of three sons and no daughters, was tonight awarded the Grace Harriman silver trophy by the Camp Fire Girls national council, in session here, as having achieved more for the organization than any other group leader in the United States.

Drag Wolf River After Mysterious Scream, Splash

Dozens of farmers from the town of Liberty, assisted by a number of people from Hortonville, were dragging the Wolf river in the vicinity of the town of Liberty bridge on County Trunk M for a "something" that was thrown from a darkened automobile about 7:45 last night. The object was thrown from the car a moment after a child was heard to scream "Oh, daddy, daddy, don't!" A few seconds later one of the two men in the car remarked: "They'll never find this again!"

The case has been reported to the sheriff's office and preparations were made this afternoon to conduct a systematic search.

The mysterious automobile was seen and the voices were heard by three men seeking game law violators in the neighborhood of the bridge. Louis Jeske, game warden, Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer and Joseph Hassman drove to the bridge last evening, and while Hassman was left at the car, Steidl and Jeske went into the brush. Just after dark an unlighted automobile coming from the north drove past Hassman, then sitting on the running board of his car, and stopped on the bridge about 30 feet from the south end and about 75 feet from Hassman. Immediately there were two small splashes, the girl screamed, and then there came the heavy splash, followed by the remark by one of the two men. An instant later the car sped off at a terrific speed and the lights were not turned on until the machine was at least a quarter mile from the bridge, speeding toward Hortonville.

All three men heard the cry and the splash and Steidl and Jeske hurried through the brush toward the bridge, but before Steidl could get to his motorcycle the runaway car had disappeared. There was no trace of anything thrown in the river. The case was reported to the district attorney's office this morning.

Well Cleaner Buried Alive BY QUICKSAND

Ottumwa, Ia.—(AP)—Buried alive beneath a pile of quicksand and rocks which showered down on him yesterday morning, Welkin Priest, 55, well cleaner, was battling against death early today while rescuers attempted to free him from his well prison, 35 feet below the surface.

Continued cave-ins frustrated all attempts of workers to extricate Priest from his prison. At one time last night they had him freed to the waist but another shower of dirt descended, a brick from the well's ceiling striking and injuring Ed Kirkland, a fireman.

Priest was at work cleaning the well when the loosened dirt from the ceiling plunged down on him at 10 a. m. yesterday. He was still alive early today and told workers he was "keeping his nerve."

SCHNEIDER PLANES ARE READY FOR RACE

Calshot, Eng.—(AP)—All the entries for the blue-ribbon Schneider cup air race successfully passed their navigability trials in the Solent before noon today. The British and the Italian pilots thereupon moored their machines for a six-hour seaworthiness test.

The British aviators were Flying Officer H. R. D. Waghorn in his supermarine Roly Poly S-6 and Flight Lieutenant D'Arcy Greig in a supermarine Napier S-5.

The Italian was Warrant Officer Tomaso Dal Molin, in a Macchi 52. The actual races will take place tomorrow, today's being in the nature of a "qualifying round" which the machines must survive to prove their "seaworthiness and water-tightness." The trials consisted of each machine taxiing across the starting line, flying in a short circuit, landing and taxiing at least a half mile at a speed of not less than 12 knots.

GRAF WAS LOST OVER NORTHERN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City—(AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin on its history making round-the-world flight, was "lost" when he described a huge circle over northern Oklahoma on the way to Lakehurst, N. J., from Los Angeles, he told W. B. Estes, general manager of the state chamber of commerce in a letter Estes has made public.

Estes had sent an invitation in German asking Dr. Eckener to pilot the Graf Zeppelin over Oklahoma City if possible, and Dr. Eckener's letter told why he had not passed over here.

"I was lost," Estes quoted his letter, "but then I had been lost since we left Los Angeles two hours behind. That encounter with the electric wire there damaged the rudder, and while we managed to keep in a more or less direct course to the northeast I still tried to circle far enough about El Reno, so as to see your city."

The Graf was over Perry, Okla., 75 miles north when it described the vast circle instead of El Reno, 30 miles west of Oklahoma City.

FEDERAL AGENTS EYE PARSON "DEGREE MILL"

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—An alleged "degree mill" for preachers is under investigation by federal agents here after complaint was made that bogus divinity parchments were being peddled by a Dallas institution in violation of the postal laws.

It was reported that B. D. degrees were offered for $50 and D. D. degrees for $100. The address of the school given in advertisements sent through the mails was listed in the Dallas city directory as a private residence in a select section.

2 KILLED, 2 HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Freeport, Ill.—(AP)—Two persons were killed and two others were injured today in a collision between a truck and a sedan. The dead were Oscar A. Schroeder, 48, and Claude A. Ross. The injured were Almer L. Kalley, deputy sheriff, and Arthur B. Galloway, an insurance man. Their car crashed into a truck driven by Arthur Linzy, of Fenimore, Wis., and his companion L. Sgichik, were unhurt.

EDISON PERMITTED TO SIT UP FOR HALF HOUR

West Orange, N. J.—(AP)—For the first time since he was stricken with pneumonia recently, Thomas A. Edison, famous inventor, was permitted to leave his bed today. He will be allowed to sit up for a half hour.

ARABS, JEWS LIST CAUSES OF DISORDER

Both Sides Issue Proclamation Stating Grievances

Jerusalem—(AP)—Pacification of the Holy Land has become increasingly difficult for the small British expeditionary forces which have engaged in guerrilla warfare with Arabs at widely separated Palestine points.

The latest disquieting development was reported today with incursion of Bedouins from the Sinai peninsula who fought British troops in the vicinity of Gaza, southern Palestine and at Beersheba, about 30 miles south-east of Gaza.

Both places were scenes of sanguinary battles in Lord Allenby's drive against the Turks during the world war. Reinforcements have been sent to the aid of the British at both points.

At the same time raiding Arabs skirmished with British troops in the vicinity of Mount Tabor, midway between the sea of Galilee and the Syrian frontier, about 15 miles from each. In a skirmish at El Meshin, southeast of Nazareth, Arab looters suffered 25 casualties and a Yorkshire detachment of British troops won.

Jerusalem continued orderly with considerable interest aroused by two proclamations, stating the different sides of the disorders which have taken such a heavy toll of life and property during the past week.

The first of the statements was from the Arab executive which met yesterday with all but six of its 48 members present, those six notifying the others they were prevented from coming to Jerusalem by local authorities.

The Muslim leaders announced they had decided to appeal to the League of Nations and to the world powers, excepting those exercising mandates, to investigate their grievances against the Jews.

They claimed the British mandate administration had brought on the situation by pro-Jewish policies. They

WILLING IS 5 UP ON EGAN FOR NINE HOLES

Pebble Beach, Calif.—(AP)—Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Ore., was 5 up at the turn on his fellow Oregonian, H. Chandler Egan, in their semifinal match of the National Amateur Golf championship.

Willing took the lead on the first hole, halved the next two, won the fourth and fifth and also the seventh and ninth, after halving the sixth and eighth. He was out in 36, even par, while Egan required 42.

Harrison H. Johnston, of St. Paul, was 4 up on Francis Ouimet, of Boston, at the ninth.

VOTE AGAINST PLAY-OFF BETWEEN JONES, HOMANS

Del Monte, Calif.—(AP)—There will be no play-off for the amateur golf championship qualifying medal, for which Bobby Jones and Gene Homans tied with scores of 115. Officials of the United States Golf association today voted proposals for a deciding match between the dethroned champion and the Princeton star next Sunday, after the tournament's close, and announced the award of two medals.

CHICAGO CAB DRIVER KIDNAPED FROM HOME

Chicago—(AP)—A cab driver, Peter Prutis, 26, was kidnapped from his home early today at the point of a gun and driven away, perhaps to his death.

Five men drove up to the rooming house where he lives and demanded to see Prutis. When he came to the door a gun was pointed at him and he was ordered into the waiting motorcar. The kidnapers wore smoked glasses.

Police believe Prutis may have been "taken for a ride," but early inquiry failed to reveal that the kidnaped man had any gang connections.

DUSTS OFF OLD LAW TO CURB LIQUOR VIOLATORS

Elgin, Ill.—(AP)—A law half a century old has been dusted off by circuit Judge Olney Allen to curb liquor law violations in Kaneo.

The law provides that bootleggers and other illegal purveyors of intoxicants may be made to work out fines at the rate of $1.50 a day, and that jailers are privileged "to attach balls and chains to them" to prevent escape.

Judge Allen said the imposition of fines has had little effect in curtailing bootlegging, and he indicated the law would be invoked in flagrant cases.

May Revise Covenant To Banish War

Geneva—(AP)—The covenant of the League of Nations, inspired by Woodrow Wilson, has already been found lacking in effective means to prevent war by the statesmen taking part in the league's tenth assembly session.

Taking a bold and progressive step to make the covenant at least as strong as the Kellogg renunciation of war pact, the British labor government today introduced a resolution into the assembly calling for revision of the league covenant so that henceforth war may be really banished, as under the Kellogg pact.

The resolution was introduced by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of Great Britain and was made in behalf also of France, Italy, Belgium, Chile and Denmark.

Great applause broke forth from delegates and auditors when Mr. Henderson, in resonant tones which carried to the remotest corners of the hall, announced that the British resolution also had the support of the German delegation.

The resolution says that the tenth assembly of the League of Nations notes with satisfaction the general adherence of states which are members of the league to the Paris pact, devised by former Secretary of State Kellogg and Premier Briand, which imposes on its signatories the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy.

It considers that the assembly should take account of the progress thus made and deems it desirable to examine articles 12 and 13 of the covenant to determine whether it is necessary to make modifications in them.

Mr. Henderson emphasized the fact that the league covenant was drawn up on the morrow of the great war and that its authors had been bound by the will of the governments of that day but that now the Kellogg pact, which renounces all war, had changed everything.

Gaps existed in the covenant which make possible recourse to war when there is no unanimity among the members of the council as to which of the disputing nations is the aggressor and when the nations themselves refuse to abide by the decision of the council.

"Therefore under the covenant, the right to conduct private war remains legitimate though under the Kellogg pact this right has been abolished," he said. "The pact has gone beyond the covenant and it is our duty to render the covenant as strong as the pact."

WINS APPLAUSE AGAIN

The British foreign secretary again won applause when he came out in strong advocacy of a general treaty which would provide financial assistance to any state becoming a victim of aggression and when he proclaimed that if this treaty should be signed today the British government would sign it immediately.

He wanted this treaty to be open to all countries, whether or not they were members of the league, thus including such nations as the United States and Soviet Russia.

He also advocated giving increased powers to the league council under the covenant.

STORM SEPARATES PLANE SQUADRON

Pilots in Navy Air Force Await Clear Weather for Denver Hop

Denver, Colo.—(AP)—Scattered by storms that forced them down at various points on their route from Kansas City to Denver, 15 planes of the U. S. Navy air force today awaited clear weather to converge on Denver to join six planes that penetrated the storm to arrive here last night. The whereabouts of the twentieth plane, missing since early yesterday, was unknown here.

Lieut. Commander H. C. Wick led nine of the single seater pursuit ships into Colorado Springs yesterday afternoon where they were held at the Alexander Airport by a fierce storm raging over Palmer Lake, between Colorado Springs and Denver. After being forced down at Deer Trail, Colo., 35 miles of here, by rain, wind and fog, six of the pursuit ships arrived at Lowry field here at sundown. Two pursuit ships spent the night at Pueblo, Colo., two amphibians of the group were down at Deadland, Kas., and the third amphibian was unaccounted for.

The commander of the squadron hopes to gather his group in Denver today, weather permitting, to put on an aerial show for a naval air service day celebration here. He plans to take off with the twenty ships on Saturday for Cheyenne, Rock Springs and Salt Lake City. The group is enroute from Cleveland to San Diego, its home base.

DEPORTED CHINAMAN TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Shanghai—(AP)—Deported from the United States after the revelation of an opium plot of huge proportions, Ying Kuo, former Chinese consul at San Francisco, and his young wife were taken into custody by Chinese authorities here today upon their arrival from San Francisco.

Instead of being jailed at Shanghai as was expected they would be, Kuo and his wife were immediately taken to Nanking, where they were booked for trial in the Nanking courts. The date of their trial was not officially made known.

Taching semi-official news agency quoted officials of the government as having said that they were determined to make an example of the pair to all government workers who violated a public trust.

21 AIRPLANES SCOUR WILDS FOR BIG LINER

Cloudy Weather Adds to Difficulties of Searchers

INDIANS AID IN HUNT

BULLETIN

Winslow, Ariz.—(AP)—Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson, former navy flying ace and chief pilot of the Maddux Air Lines, returned here at 10:42 a. m. today after a search of the desert and reported he saw four men on the wastes near Walpi, Arizona, who waved their shirts at him in a distress signal and that he replied.

After signaling to the men that he had seen them, Tomlinson returned to Winslow. Other ships were immediately dispatched to the scene.

Walpi is on a high mesa about one hundred miles north of Winslow, Transcontinental Air Transport officials were elated over the news in hopes the men might be survivors of the City of San Francisco. T. A. T. transport plane which has been missing since Tuesday.

Lieut. Tomlinson was flying a trimotored all-metal transport ship similar to the City of San Francisco. Within a few minutes after Tomlinson reached here, planes capable of landing in the vicinity of the four men took off with food supplies and water.

One factor which raised high hopes that these might be survivors of the City of San Francisco was that this would be on the probable course of the missing ship if the "Tep" of Tuesday were true that it had been seen over old Fort Defiance, Arizona. Another factor was that it was unlikely any persons would be on this forlorn section of the Arizona desert with white shirts unless they had landed in an airplane.

BULLETIN

N. Y. York—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. George F. Canfield announced through the New York office of the Transcontinental Air Transport today that they would give a reward of $5,000 to any person or persons finding their son, Maynard Canfield who was courier on the missing T. A. T. plane.

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—All facilities of Universal Aviation Corporation today were offered to Transcontinental Air Transport in efforts to find the missing T. A. T. air liner, City of San Francisco. Marlan "Bud" Gurney, assistant operations manager of Universal, flying a Lockheed-Vega plane from Garden City, Kansas, has joined the search in the southwest.

Gallup, N. M.—(AP)—Twenty-one airplanes, the first unit of the aerial armada seeking the lost air liner City of San Francisco, inaugurated the greatest plane hunt in American history when they took off today to survey the wild area surrounding Gallup.

The planes, part of a fleet of about 70 craft available for the search between Albuquerque and California, faced at least to some degree the danger into which the City of San Francisco flew last Tuesday when she left Albuquerque for Winslow, Ariz., with eight persons aboard. The air liner, fighting a storm, was last seen near Grants, N. M.

Cloudy weather and poor visibility added to the hazards with which the searchers had to cope. The jagged country, characterized by rugged mountains, dead volcanoes and lava washes, offer little opportunity for emergency landing. Because of the forbidding nature of the terrain and the fact that no trace of the plane had been found in three days of searching, the belief persisted that the City of San Francisco had met with disaster.

In addition to running chances of becoming lost themselves or having

Sheriff Hearing Opens At Courthouse Here Monday

F. L. GILBERT APPOINTED TO HEAR STORIES

Investigation in Ouster Proceedings, Might Last Two Weeks

Charges of corruption in the office of Sheriff Fred W. Giese again will be aired next Monday morning when the hearing on the plea of Stanley A. Staidl that Giese be removed from office by Governor Walter J. Kohler is started in the courthouse before Frank L. Gilbert, Madison, appointed by the governor to hear the testimony. Staidl's plea that Giese be removed was filed with the governor last July.

Mr. Gilbert, a prominent Madison attorney, formerly was attorney general for Wisconsin, formerly a judge of the Dane-co court and a member of the Wisconsin Conservation commission.

Mr. Staidl, assisted by Oscar J. Schmieg, assistant district attorney, will have charge of the prosecution. Mr. Giese will be represented by F. S. Bradford and H. H. Benton attorneys.

County officials have estimated that the sheriff's case will last from two to four weeks. It is known that from 25 to 35 witnesses will be called by the state and while there has been no definite announcement from Giese's attorneys, it is believed that the defense will offer a number of witnesses.

JOHN DOE PROBE

Giese's ouster was asked by Mr. Staidl after John Doe investigation here this summer at which witnesses told of paying bribe and protection money to the sheriff's office, of buying slot machines and stills from the sheriff's department after they had been ordered confiscated; of the release of prisoners before their terms expired.

Some of the witnesses involved the sheriff in these alleged transactions, but, in a voluntary statement offered at the close of the John Doe hearing, Sheriff Giese denied taking any part in the illegal deals.

Dan Kelly, former turnkey at the county jail, who is now being held in the Calumet-co jail at Chilton on charges of accepting bribe money, is the state's principal witness. Kelly has admitted taking bribes from saloon keepers and slot machine owners and operators. He admitted releasing prisoners from jail before their terms expired and, reselling slot machines and stills to owners after they had been confiscated in raids.

TELLS OF FACT

The former turnkey alleges that all these deals were made with the full knowledge of Sheriff Giese and that the sheriff received two-thirds of all the bribe and protection money which was collected. Kelly, at the John Doe hearing, told of a pact between himself and the sheriff by which soft drink parlors, proprietors and slot machine and still operators in the county were to be "shaken down."

Many witnesses in the John Doe hearing corroborated the stories told by Kelly.

The sheriff has stoutly maintained his innocence since the charges were first made. He claims Kelly is attempting to "frame" him and he offered explanations of the stories told by the witnesses.

SHOOTING ARRESTED

One of the witnesses, Louis Jeske, claimed the sheriff advised him as to his testimony in connection with a gold star presented to the sheriff before he took office by the Spanish American War veterans.

A charge of attempting to incite perjury was lodged against the sheriff, as a result of Jeske's story and the stories of Nick Leisch, Freedom, and Henry Van Camp Grand Chute.

This sheriff is now free of $1,000 bonds ending his trial on this charge.

av Chump's story of the collection of a $90-bribe from him, also resulted in the arrest of Kelly, and Lother Kemp, a deputy sheriff who still is connected with the sheriff's office.

Kemp is free on a $1,000 bond but Kelly, unable to furnish the bond, has been held at Chilton.

UNCLE OF APPLETONIAN DIES IN INDIANAPOLIS

Dr. Orange Scott Runnels, 82, internationally known homeopathic specialist, died recently in Indianapolis. Dr. Runnels was an uncle of Dr. D. S. Runnels of this city. Mrs. Runnels, who survives, formerly was Miss Alice Barreau, a sister of the late M. F. Barreau of Appleton.

SEEKS COMPENSATION UNDER WORKMEN'S ACT

Charging she contracted tuberculosis as a result on constant coughs which she caught while working about a machine at the Menasha Carton company, plant, Mrs. Ray Ulrich, Menasha, is seeking compensation from the Menasha company. "Napoleon" Of Gangland Spends Time Studying Life Of Little Corporal Philadelphia—A couple of war riors are getting together behind the gray walls of the Eastern penitentiary here.

"Scarface" Al Capone, credited with being the directing genius of some of Chicago's bloodiest gang battles, and—believe it or not—Napoleon Bonaparte!

Yes, Al, in the solitude of prison life, has turned to reading and the study of biographies, just as the little Corporal at Elba found solace in introspection and in fantastic plots and dreams of the restoration of his vanished power.

In his American, "St. Helena," where he was thrown for the trivial offense of totting a gun to a movie show, the "king of racketeers," never once defeated by the courts of Chicago, is meditating over Emil Ludwig's "Napoleon."

Al doesn't choose to discuss the book at any great length. Pressed for a comment, he admitted that "Nap" sure was a great guy.

HE WANTS PEACE

Today, Al sits in the scant comfort of his prison cell and asks only to be left alone to serve his "rap" in peace.

"Al," said Warden Herbert L. Smith, "it has been reported that you are being petted in this jail. Now I want you to tell the world about how you are being treated here."

Capone, a bit abashed at being caught at his latest avocation of reading, laid aside the thick volume of Ludwig's biography and peered at his visitor through silver-rimmed, scholarly spectacles that bridged his thick nose. "Petted," he chuckled, "this is funny. I'm perfectly satisfied here, but if I'm getting away with anything I want to know it."

Contradicting reports that his prison home was adorned with thick oriental rugs, paintings on the wall, radio and such comfortable equipment, he sat on the edge of a neatly-made bunk and waved to the simple furnishing of his jailroom.

On the floor was a prison made rug. Gladly filled a plain vase on a small table. A photograph and a wooden smoking stand, cut and painted in the form of a butler holding a tray, completed the picture.

AN ORDINARY PRISONER

"Get this straight," said, with a geniality that belied his reputation as a "bad man," "I'm taking this rap and I'm taking it just like anyone else would. That's the way I want it." He seemed more than anxious to refute reports that he was being made the object of special attention in his new home whence he was transferred from the County prison at Homeburg because of crowded conditions.

Prisoner No. 544, as Capone now is known, occupies a regulation cell with an ambler who is now the prison statistician. Al, when not engaged in the study of the lives of great men, delves into the calculations of his cell-mate.

Figures, he admitted, always have interested him, even when they're not preceded by dollar signs.

"My ideas of penology," Warden Smith said in explaining his treatment of Capone since he was moved to his prison, "are based on common sense. This man, called a dangerous gangster, came here to me as just another prisoner. I am not interested in his past—I am more interested in his behavior here. Capone is not a pet. He is just a good prisoner. He has proven himself an ideal prisoner, and anyone who conducts himself within our regulations gets the breaks, if there are any."

SCHEDULE ECONOMICS

MEETS FOR NEXT WEEK

A series of organization meetings with home economics clubs in the county have been planned for next week by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home economics leader.

Groups will elect officers, make arrangements for future meetings and will be given by Miss Thompson. The schedule of meetings follows: Tuesday evening, Greenville; Wednesday afternoon, Nichols; Thursday afternoon, Uman's addition to Appleton; Friday afternoon, Shiocton.

POSTPONE TRIAL OF SOUTH CAROLINA NEGRO

The trial of Arthur Wilson, 21, colored, of Durham, S. C., on charges of assault with intent to rape and assault with intent to do great bodily harm, which was scheduled for Friday morning in municipal court has been postponed until Oct. 2.

Wilson was arrested after John Kersten, 1513 W. Franklin-st., had been knocked down and an attempt made to attack his 15-year-old daughter. Wilson is being held in the county jail under $2,000 bonds.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO SHIOCTON WOMAN

Mrs. Emma Morse, 48, Shiocton, was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday for her husband, Clifford Morse, 61, Shiocton.

Morse charged her husband kept company with another woman and that he often used abusive language in addressing her. The couple was married Aug. 6, 1903, at Appleton, and separate Aug. 1, 1929. Mrs. Morse was granted custody of two minor children and the question of a property settlement in lieu of alimony was held open.

LICENSED AT WAUKEGAN

Marriage licenses have been issued at Waukegan to Herman Schmaling and Margaret Miller, Appleton; Joseph Lewandowski and Gertrude Koepsel, Menasha; Naron John and Ann Christophs, Seymour.

Intuition Needed By Business Executives

New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—Intuition, once considered a feminine prerogative, is listed as part of the success of big business executives by Henry Binns, psychologist of Bradford, England.

He has been studying the psychology of industry in the British textile business for several years and reported his conclusions to the International Congress of psychology at Yale University today.

There is no deep mystery about intuition, he finds it. His definition is that it arises "out of subconscious memory in which is stored a much wider experience than that covered by the actual facts under review."

Other qualities considered by Mr. Binns as essential for industrial leadership are: Capacity natural and acquired; for dealing with a new situation; specific ability to concentrate upon and coordinate numerous complex factors quickly in one decision; knowledge, confidence, impartiality and stability. The latter is good health combined with freedom from anxiety and from depressing emotions.

Methods whereby the psychologist is promoting safety first were described by W. V. Bingham, the Personnel Research Federation, New York.

In a city which he did not name, street car motormen were studied from an unusual angle, "proneness to accidents." The psychologists sought the different ways in which the men were prone to accident.

"This," said Mr. Bingham, "led to improvements in operations by means of which a notable reduction in collisions and other accidents has been brought about. This approach is spreading to other street railways and to machine industries, supplementing the more familiar types of safety effort."

The origins of blushing were traced to fear in primitive men by Dr. J. T. McCurdy of Cambridge, England. The early ancestors of the human race probably blushed when eating, because they were in some degree more exposed to danger than apparently while occupied in a meal.

Dr. McCurdy said that perhaps primitive man blushed whenever he was doing anything which put him temporarily in a defenseless position. Lovemaking was probably a great distraction of attention from the business of self-defense, rooting the blushing habit deeply in courtship relations.

WINTER SCHEDULE RESUMED AT LIBRARY

The schedule of summer hours at the Appleton public library, effective since July 1, ended this week, and from now on the library again will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening. Vacation books are due Oct. 1. It is estimated that about 100 books still are in circulation on the vacation schedule.

OPEN ST. MATTHEW SCHOOL ON MONDAY

The St. Matthew Lutheran school on W. Lawrence-st. will open for the fall term at 9 o'clock Monday morning and it is expected the enrollment will far exceed that of last year. Arthur Ottensmeyer of Zealand, N. D., who took charge of the eighth grades of the school last year will again supervise instruction, according to the Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor of St. Matthews church.

BUILDING PERMITS

Two building permits were issued Thursday by John N. Welland, building inspector. They were granted to the Kimberly Real Estate company, 526 S. Fairview-st., one car garage, cost $200; and to Richard Ganzen, 310 W. College-ave, for a temporary signboard, cost $50.

Donovan Erickson, former Lawrence college student who recently finished a law course at the University of Michigan visited at Phi Kappa Tau fraternity house Thursday.

PLANES SCOUR COUNTRY FOR MISSING SHIP

to make a forced landing upon the wild terrain, the initial 21 fliers faced the difficulty of being unable to clearly distinguish objects on the queerly colored and deceptive landscape.

INDIANS JOIN SEARCH

The reward offer of $5,000 by the Transcontinental Air Transport operators for the City of San Francisco for location of the plane served to add to the number of searchers. Hundreds of swarthy Zuni with desert-trained eyes and bodies inured to the discomforts of the open spaces, scoured the country around Gallup. Cowboys, motorists and others joined the hunt.

The aerial searchers went about the job methodically today for the first time. Each craft was assigned to a given territory. T. A. T. officials said their planes would work to the southwest toward Winslow, the destination of the City of San Francisco. Two other ships were assigned to the country north and east of Winslow, over the isolated villages of the Hopi and Navajo Indians.

Those directing the search said that as additional planes arrived they would be sent to northern Arizona, thus putting the entire stretch of country from Gallup to the Grand Canyon of Arizona under aerial observation, an area more than 200 miles long.

T. A. T. officials believed that the coming of the Black Rock Wash country south of here had been sufficient to establish that the City of San Francisco had not fallen there, as was first thought. The region around Zuni then was searched without result. Likewise the district around Houck, Ariz., was surveyed from the air on the strength of reports that they had seen a plane believed to be the missing one.

ORDER ARMY PLANES

All available army planes in the southwest were ordered to join the aircraft of the T. A. T. and its competing lines in the search. Navy planes also participated yesterday and a dozen more from San Diego were under orders to join the hunt today.

The much advertised report that the plane had been seen 23 miles south of here and its eight occupants apparently dead was traced to its source yesterday and T. A. T. officials disclosed that it had come from a bus-driver who had heard an unidentified man telling it in a shoe shining parlor.

In spite of the blank wall which has confronted the searchers at every turn thus far, H. W. Beck, western traffic manager of the T. A. T. at Los Angeles, issued a statement yesterday he was still "hopeful" regarding the hunt.

There was at least one person

In Fatal Crash

Funeral services for Major John P. Wood, Wausau flier killed in a plane crash at Needles, Calif., Monday, will be held at Louisa, Ky., where the body will be buried. The Badger pilot, on his way to Cleveland in an air race, lost his life when a bolt of lightning struck the plane.

more hopeful than Beck—Mrs. J. B. Stowe, wife of the pilot.

Fearless and confident despite the widespread belief that the City of San Francisco had met with disaster, Mrs. Stowe expressed the belief that her husband in Clovis, N. M., that her home is alive.

"I know he is safe somewhere," she said. "He is just where he cannot communicate with anyone. He would fly far from the regular course he told me, if he were forced to make a landing, in order to come down with some degree of safety."

KNEW COUNTRY WELL

"He knows the country perfectly and I know they will find him safe, with the plane probably disabled. He said not to expect any word from him for several days if he ever had to land in any of the forsaken country over which he sometimes flies."

A fleet of 58 planes was prepared at various airports throughout southern California to aid the planes centered at Winslow.

Ten navy planes and three craft from the Marine Corps at San Diego were groomed to take off under Commander George C. Gillespie, and 15 army pursuit ships as well as five bombers rested at Rockwell field there, awaiting orders.

Beck announced previously that 25 private and commercial planes would leave southern California points today to join the search.

On the theory that the City of San Francisco, which was piloted by J. B. Stowe, considered one of the best fliers in the employ of the company, might have outridden the storm over New Mexico and Arizona and then penetrated into the deserts of southern California before being forced down, searching parties were sent into the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river.

These searchers, sent out by the Union Pacific railroad, also went into Bryce Canyon, and Zion Canyon of southern Utah to check reports

RETAILERS PLAN TO DECORATE FOR FALL STYLE SHOW

Window Display of New Fall Modes Will Be Revealed to Public on Sept. 18

The annual fall opening of Appleton retail stores and display of fall modes and styles will begin at 7:30 Wednesday evening, Sept. 18, when factory whistles will blow as a signal to merchants to light up their windows and reveal the new styles to the public.

There will be no large parade, according to plans of retailers in charge of the opening, but the 120th field artillery band will play several numbers at various places on College-ave, the boy scout drum corps will pound out a few selections and a quartet will sing several numbers.

No prizes will be awarded merchants for the best windows but a contest open to the public is being planned. Entrants in the contest will be asked to look at all windows on the avenue and then write a letter of more than 200 words telling which window they considered best.

Winner of first prize will receive $25, winner of second prize $15 and of third prize $10. Judges in the contest will be several men still to be picked. The contest will be open to everyone except retailers and their employees.

Several merchants are planning to have open house on Wednesday evening while others have plans for a style show. These plans will be announced by the merchants in their advertisements.

END BITTER BATTLE IN COURT OVER ESTATE

Ford du Lac—(AP)—A bitter court battle was at an end today with the decision of County Judge Perry Niskern, Green Lake, that the estate of August Paul, Marquette, should go to his mother. Paul killed his wife and two children, set his house afire and then committed suicide at Marquette, Wis., June 11, 1928. His wife's parents claimed they were entitled to share in the estate.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

A marriage license was issued Friday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to Erwin H. Luebbe, Appleton, and Viola Mueller, route 1, Appleton.

that the plane had been seen over that area.

T. A. T. officials said searchers had run down hundreds of rumors yesterday, all of which had proved groundless.

"The plane has been reported virtually everywhere from the Mexican to the Canadian borders," said the T. A. T. press spokesman.

EUROPEAN FLYING BOAT FOR AMERICAN AIR LINE

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—The first of two huge Dornier super-wahl four-engined flying boats which will be put into service on the Stout Detroit-Cleveland line has arrived in the United States.

It is the first of the famous Dornier planes to be brought to this country.

The flying boat, carrying 20 passengers, was sent to the Philadelphia navy yard for assembly, inspection and test flights.

The second of the planes will be shipped to the United States shortly from the Dornier plant at Friedrichshafen, Germany. The Stout line, now carrying passengers across Lake Erie between Detroit and Cleveland, soon is to be extended to Buffalo.

ARABS, JEWS LIST CAUSES OF TROUBLE

asked the league to see that a parliamentary government representative of the Arab majority was installed in the Holy Land.

The United Jewish organizations in the country, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency said, submitted a memorandum to Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner, in which responsibility for the bloodshed was placed upon agitation fostered by Amin El Husni, grand mufti of Jerusalem and president of the Moslem council, and on certain members of the Palestine government.

"This propaganda," the statement said, "was conducted by a well organized force before the very eyes of the government, which is responsible for the security of the country and the safety of its inhabitants and which did nothing to stop this dangerous propaganda and prevent the results."

This strange indifference on the part of a modern and strong government, which knows how to use its power it is so wished, strengthened our conviction that in government circles there are elements which are interested in this propaganda and in making distinctions between the nations of this country."

The memorandum accused the government of inefficiency in handling the riots when they first started, not only in Jerusalem, but also in Hebron, Belsan, Tel Aviv, Haifa, Safed and other Jewish centers. The government was accused also of having "harassed and pursued those Jews who were defending themselves, taking from them their arms, arresting them and handing them over to courts as if they were criminals."

Ten demands were put forward, including guarantees of protection for Jews in all parts of Palestine, release of Jews arrested for carrying arms, a commission of independent inquiry of the disorders and "arrest and trial of all guilty, beginning with the attackers and ending with government officials who were unfaithful to their duty."

RECORD NUMBER OF EXHIBITS SHOWN AT HORTONVILLE FAIR

Attendance Reaches 1,500 on Principal Day and Then Falls Off

BY W. F. WINSEY
Hortonville—Fifteen hundred people attended the Outagamie County Fair here Wednesday.

On Thursday the attendance was smaller than on Wednesday but the program and exhibit attractions were the same as on the principal day.

Although a new building was erected recently to house the cattle, additional room had to be provided to accommodate a large overflow. On the grounds were 125 cattle and 25 4-H Club calves. About 175 sheep and 100 hogs were shown.

County Agent J. H. Kavanaugh of Brown Co. judged the cattle, calves and hogs. The calf club winners were Carl Roseler, Dale, Brown; Swiss; and Oscar, Brown; and Edward Handschke, Hortonville, Guernsey; senior heifer calf, Walter Döberstein, Hortonville, Holstein; junior heifer calf, Donald Bohren, Dale, Holstein; senior calf, and Oscar Bohren, Dale, Holstein; yearling heifer.

In the cattle department, Albert Schmidt showed 7 Guernseys and drew 5 firsts, and 4 seconds; Elmer Kimball, Seymour, showed 7 Guernseys and drew 5 firsts, and 2 seconds; Harry Armitage, Dale, showed 4 Holsteins and drew 3 seconds; 4 Holsteins and drew 2 seconds; showed 6 Holsteins and drew 2 seconds and 1 third; Mueller & Becknagel, Cicero, showed 19 Brown Swisses and drew 9 firsts, 3 seconds, and 5 thirds; A. W. Litzkow, Black Creek, showed 10 Brown Swisses and drew 2 firsts and 6 seconds; Chas. R. Carpenter showed 8 Holsteins and drew 4 firsts, 3 seconds and 1 third; Lorenz Metzler, New Franken, showed 21 Jersey cattle and drew 11 firsts, and 10 seconds; Joe Birmingham showed 1 row and driving horse and drew 1 first on each.

In the sheep department, Lorenz Metzler, New Franken, showed 57 sheep and drew 19 firsts, 23 seconds, and 12 thirds; L. H. Manley, Hortonville, showed 12 sheep and drew 6 firsts, 4 seconds, and 1 third; William Prellipp, Seymour, showed 70 sheep and drew 32 firsts 24 seconds, and 9 thirds.

In the hog department, William Joyce, De Pere, showed 18 animals and drew 9 firsts and 7 seconds; F. J. Schmidt, Greenleaf, showed 47 hogs and drew 16 firsts, 17 seconds, and 7 thirds; William Prellipp, Seymour, showed 3 hogs and drew 3 firsts; John Hoffberger and Sons, Fremont, showed 15 hogs and drew 2 seconds and 3 thirds; Chas. F. Carpenter, Hortonville, showed 14 hogs and drew 7 firsts, 4 seconds, and 3 thirds.

Forty-five animals of all kinds were exhibited in the horse department. In the home economics section was an exceptional display of women's work.

MANY KILLINGS ARE NOT GANG MURDERS

Chicago Police Commissioner Explains Causes of Recent Deaths

Chicago—(AP)—John Stege, deputy commissioner of police, delivered himself today of some positive ideas in connection with Chicago gang murders—murders which he said were not really gang affairs at all. Stege said he has learned the motive behind the public execution of Frank (Cy) Cawley, Edward Westcott, west side hoodlums and gangsters who were slain early yesterday. That motive, he said, had nothing to do with gang vengeance or gang warfare. It evolved from a game of dice on a sabbath afternoon.

"Usually, in the case of murders of this kind, the tendency is to ascribe the killings to some of the well known gang groups—the Capone outfit, the Moran-Alloisio syndicate and others," Stege said. "The most isolated crimes have been so attributed. As a result and Chicago has been given a bad name as a city where the technique of murder is different than elsewhere. Actually murder is the same here as any place else."

"Frank Cawley had many enemies who doubtless were anxious to kill him. Most underworld characters are. He was not of those types who have quarreled upon others of his own kind. Westcott was of the same ilk; a pair of cheap criminals. They were not gangsters, nor did they wear a gang."

"Why were they killed? A crap game had been going on every Sunday afternoon in a recreation field in the west side. Last Sunday it was held up and the players said their total losses were $6,000. Cawley didn't take part in the oldup. He was too well known. The victims, however, held him responsible and marked him for death. Willie Davis, one of Cawley's friends, was another man the crapshooters decided to 'get.'"

"Well, they got Cawley. Westcott happened to be with him and they hit him too. If they find Davis be the next. There were developments yesterday another recent slaying which had been classified as a 'gang' affair, that was the action of a coroner's jury in holding Frank Cudla to the murder of John Bowman, a minor racketeer, nine days ago. It was Cudla who delivered Bowman's body to a hospital and then fled. He said Bowman and Bowman were set upon by gunmen."

According to Cudla, he, Bowman and James McManus were partners in an alcohol business. McManus is under arrest for the murder Sunday night of Henry Connors in a north park-st cabaret.

POLICE INVESTIGATE FALSE FIRE ALARM

The fire department was called to the corner of Winnebago and N. Division-sts about 7 o'clock Thursday evening when someone turned in a false alarm. Police were investigating the story of bystanders who said a gang of boys had been seen about the box shortly before the alarm was received.

LITTLE CHANGE IN FRUIT, VEGETABLE PRICES THIS WEEK

Housewives Have Big Variety from Which to Select Family Needs

Fruit and vegetable prices at Appleton markets are the same this week as they were last week, according to dealers. A few more fresh vegetables have arrived on the market to take the place of those which have been disappearing with the changing seasons.

The vegetable market is quoted as follows: Green beans, 20 cents a pound; new carrots, 10 cents a bunch; new beets, 10 cents a bunch; celery, 10 to 20 cents a bunch; radishes, 5 cents a bunch; head lettuce, 10 to 20 cents a head; and green onions, 5 cents a bunch.

Cucumbers are selling at prices ranging from 5 to 15 cents each this week; spinach, 20 cents a pound; new cabbage, 6 cents a pound; turnips, 10 cents a bunch; potatoes, 4 cents a pound; green peppers, 5 to 10 cents each; cauliflower, 25 to 35 cents each; parsley, 10 cents a bunch; garlic, 35 cents a pound; and sweet potatoes, 12 cents a pound.

Alligator pears are still selling at 75 cents each; peas, 20 cents a pound; cantaloupe, 15 to 20 cents each; honeydew melons, 35 and 45 cents each; leek, 10 cents a bunch; red cabbage, 8 cents a pound; corn, 25 to 30 cents a dozen; Hubbard squash, 5 cents a pound; egg plant, 20 to 25 cents each; acorn squash, 10 cents each.

The fruit market is quoted as follows: Peaches, $1.25 to $1.40 cents a crate; blue grapes, 35 to 40 cents a basket; plums, 10 to 20 cents a dozen; pineapple, 30 and 35 cents each; limes, 50 cents a dozen; coconuts, 15 to 20 cents each; Cauliflower oranges, 49 cents a dozen; bananas, three pounds for 25 cents to 12 cents a pound; lemons, 50 cents a dozen; apples, 10 cents a pound; Whitney crab, 5 cents a pound; grape fruit, 5 to 15 cents each.

ANZACS WATCHING BYRD'S FINDINGS

Mineral Discoveries Make Australians Regret Inactivity

Sydney, Australia—(AP)—Reports that Commander Richard E. Byrd has found minerals in the Antarctic have brought regrets to many Australians that their government did not explore the wind-swept, icy waters more diligently.

Before he left New Zealand for the Bay of Whales, Commander Byrd was quoted as saying that he did not intend to claim any of the land he might discover for the United States.

The inference drawn here, now that Commander Byrd has claimed Antarctic areas for his government, is that he thinks they are of real value.

No man in Australia is better qualified to express an opinion on this subject than Sir Edgeworth David, who besides being a world famous geologist, has had personal experience of the Antarctic regions. From observations he made when he was in that area, he concluded that a huge Antarctic coalfield yielding coal of similar quality to the best Australian product, exists and extends for at least a thousand miles under the Antarctic snows. Copper pyrites and molybdenite have also been found, and Professor David deduces the presence of gold.

Mrs. J. L. Johns, 908 E. Alton-st submitted to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Wednesday.

Prof. and Mrs. F. W. Clippinger and son have returned from Rochester, Minn., where Mr. Clippinger submitted to an operation for goitre at the Mayo clinic.

Gains 12 Pounds; Is Like New Man

"I believe I suffered as much for five years with stomach trouble and constipation as anybody in the state of Wisconsin. I tried dozens of medicines and was finally operated on, but the Sargol treatment did me more good than everything else put together."

"After a case of scarlet fever, I started down hill. A year later I had my gall bladder removed. After that, it seemed like nothing would help either my stomach trouble or my constipation. I couldn't digest the little I did eat. I was bilious and lost a lot of strength and energy."

"The way Sargol brought back my appetite, strength and energy beats anything I ever saw. Now I'm just like a new man. I enjoy hearty meals, everything agrees with me. I've gained twelve pounds and my weight is gone. Sargol Soft Mass pills completely ended my constipation and biliousness. I only wish there was some way I could tell every sufferer in the world what this treatment did for me." — A. F. Bertsch, 1480 9th St., Milwaukee. Volgers Drug Store, Appleton; H. C. COMMITTEE SEEKS BIDS FOR REMOVING SNOW FROM ROADS

Highway Board Also Asks for Estimates on Gravel and Equipment

Bids for snow removal equipment, to furnish gravel for completing several improvements on county trunk highways and to contract for removing snow from county highways, will be opened at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 17, by the highway committee.

The committee, at a special meeting this week, made arrangements to advertise for bids on the various projects.

Bids are sought on four caterpillar tractors, eight three-ton trucks, one tractor snow plow, seven truck snow plows, two carloads of snow fence and on rotary snow plows. In its advertisement the committee points out that it has four caterpillar tractors and three tractor snow plows which it wishes to trade in if a deal is made.

Contractors are asked to submit estimates for removing snow for county roads for the season of 1929-30. Bids may be submitted on 50 mile stretches or on the whole county road system. Contractors must furnish a guaranty that roads will be opened within 72 hours after a storm to the satisfaction of the highway committee and contractors also must furnish labor, material, machinery and equipment necessary for the work.

Prices on 6,500 cubic yards of material for completing improvements on County Trunk M in the towns of Bovina and Maine and on the County Line road between Waupaca and Outagamie-cos are sought.

These bids must be accompanied by certified checks of $100. Bids may be submitted on crushed gravel, pit run or crushed stone.

If prices and conditions are satisfactory the committee will award contracts on the gravel but it is believed the bids on snow removal and on snow removal equipment will be referred to the county board which will hold a special meeting in October to consider them.

CHURCH GOES BACK ON REGULAR SCHEDULE

With a rally day service on Sunday, the Congregational church school will resume its regular schedule at 9:45 Sunday morning. A general worship service will be held at that time in the church auditorium, after which the children will disperse to their various departments—beginners, primary, junior, junior high school, senior high school and adult.

Holy Communion will be administered at the 11 o'clock church service, which also will be in the nature of a general rally for the winter's work.

A reception for Lawrence college freshmen will be held at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Sept. 15.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ASKS LICENSE FOR BROADCAST STATION

Indianapolis Officials Point Out How Radio Aids Them in Work

BY ROBERT MACK.
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press.
Washington—The increasing use of radio communication as an aid to law enforcement is emphasized by the application just filed with the federal radio commission by the police department of Indianapolis, Ind., which is seeking a construction permit for a short wave station there.

Chicago and Detroit have already installed radio equipment to aid their respective police departments and the idea is said to be receiving favorable consideration in other cities on the basis of information reaching the commission.

The principal use so far devised for police radio systems is that of maintaining continuous liaison between headquarters and automobiles carrying officers in remote parts of the city in search of criminals. Liaison between headquarters and outlying precincts is maintained of course, by telephone and telegraph, although even here there is a possible field for wireless communication in the event the wires should be cut in some major disturbance.

Mobile receiving sets mounted on police automobiles are used to keep the officers constantly informed as to what is happening at headquarters. The advantages of this system are obvious. For instance, if a searching party is sent to the northwest section of a city in search of an escaped prisoner or a suspect, it sometimes happens that headquarters receives a tip that the person wanted is in some other locality. Without wireless communication it is impossible to reach the searching party until it either returns or telephones in and that may be too late.

INVALUABLE AID
In times of serious disorder when it is desirable to keep squads of police continuously moving about in the disturbed areas, radio communication is an invaluable aid. The mobile squads can keep on the move constantly and at the same time can be informed from headquarters of any outbreak in any particular locality.

Those who have given some thought to the possibility of a more extensive use of wireless communication in the prevention of crime or the apprehension of criminals, are convinced that the resources of this agency have, so far, been merely tapped. It has been pointed out that in addition to broadcasting verbal descriptions of persons sought for crime, the radio in its various fields of development may also be used to broadcast actual pictures and fingerprints.

Not only may this be done from a city headquarters to its outlying station houses but it may also be done in practically a world wide basis. As modern methods of transportation facilitate the escape of a criminal, modern methods of communication increase the chances for his capture. Some super criminal of tomorrow may seek safety in a trans-Atlantic airplane flight only to find himself greeted abroad by a policeman bearing the criminal's picture and fingerprints which preceded him by wireless.

PHILADELPHIA SHOWS BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT
Philadelphia—Industrial conditions in this section show unusual strength. Unfilled orders at most manufacturing plants have increased within the last fortnight and factory employment is picking up. The recent level is well above that for September 1928, and consumption of electric power also has advanced materially.

PENNSYLVANIA SETS UP HUGE GAME PRESERVE
Harrisburg, Pa.—The state game commission has purchased 84,000 additional acres of land on which game birds will be propagated. The program of the commission involves the expenditure of about $200,000 a year. The commission now owns approximately 147,000 acres devoted to this purpose.

Absolute Rest Required In Infantile Paralysis Cases

Madison—There has been no outbreak of infantile paralysis in Wisconsin this year. Whenever an occasional case is found, the utmost of vigilance is exercised by physicians with the result that no particular epidemic has occurred in any community. Dr. C. A. Harper of the State Board of Health declared today that as soon as a single case is reported, the utmost of vigilance is exercised to curtail any spread of the disease.

Nevertheless, the educational committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society in a bulletin issued today warns the public to promptly report to health authorities any symptoms among children which may indicate the disease. The health bulletin declares that if Wisconsin exercises rigid authority, any outbreak like that which occurred in 1916 may be prevented.

"Despite years of research the real cause of the infection is unknown; hence no definite rules can be laid down in regard to prevention," declares the bulletin. "During the latter part of the summer, any child with an unexplained stomach or intestinal disturbance and a temperature up to 103 degrees, with a discomfort out of all proportion to the symptoms, should be kept apart from other children for a few days and the family physician called. Pains in the neck, back and limbs, general weakness and clumsiness about the fourth day of illness mark the onset of paralysis and may establish the diagnosis. Then a strict quarantine must be established and observed under the direction of the family physician."

"After the first week of the disease, the second and most difficult period begins, namely, the period of rehabilitation. Neighbors are usually prolific with advice at this time; suggestions ranging from violent rubbing with skunk oil to long and vigorous periods of walking. This creates a very difficult situation for the attending physician and nurse and a dangerous one for the patient. Follow the doctor's advice only. His first task is to make the patient comfortable and the next, to prevent the affected muscles from contracting. If this occurs it may result in a permanent crippling of the patients."

"Both the family and patient must understand that absolute and continued rest is essential for a complete recovery of the weakened muscles, which must not be used at all except when and as an orthopedist directs."

"All cases of infantile paralysis must be reported to the health authorities." "When this is done the State Department of Health offers to the attending physician and to the family the services of trained orthopedists and orthopedic nurses in caring for the patient. If accepted the nurse calls upon the family without delay and instructs them in the proper procedures to be followed."

"After all pain and tenderness have left the affected muscles, then and only then is it time for a series of properly graded and controlled exercises, carefully carried out according to the direction of the orthopedist."

"Expert care and supervision is required in cases of infantile paralysis in order to restore the use of the affected muscles."

Talks To Parents

SONGS
By ALICE JUDSON PEALE
By millions of children, music means jazz. The only songs they know are the words of jazz tunes. There is little in these that can exercise a happy influence on the growing child.

The words are vulgar and sentimental, the rhythms, however excellent, they may be for dancing, merely echo or accentuate the quality of the grow up starved for the fine, hearty tunes and the gay, friendly words which should constitute for them a large part of their musical experience.

Some children are lucky. From the schools they have attended and the background of their own homes they bring a store of pleasant songs.

At a certain camp the boys and girls sometimes sing from seven in the evening until it is time to go to bed. They know nonsense songs by the score—silly, irresponsible words and music of which they never seem to tire.

The happier of the negro spirituals they sing with a joy in the rhythm and the rich, simple words. They know dozens of old English folk songs, simple ballads, most of them, sung to quaint and charming melodies. They sing each one from beginning to end, whether there are three stanzas or 50, and they faithfully repeat each refrain. They know many of the songs from "Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Iolanthe."

What sort of songs do your children sing? If it seems to you that their repertoire is not all it might be, make up your mind to think of the children next time you go into a music store.

If you browse and inquire a little you will surely unearth the sort of music they will really love to sing. Bring home with you some English folk songs or the score of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera and see how eagerly the children will crowd around you to learn songs which, if they were not so delightful to grownups, one would say had been written especially for children.

WOMEN URGED TO HELP OWN SEX IN BUSINESS

New York—(AP)—Patronage of women by women is advocated by Miss Lena Madeira Phillips, honorary president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

She believes that if women are to obtain equal opportunity and equal pay with men they must help each other in a business way.

Before her retirement from the presidency in June, Miss Phillips urged a "business reciprocity" program. An experiment in this already has been tried by the Mississippi branch of the federation.

By the plan, each member of a group of women selects, from her acquaintances, five women whose product or skill she considers worthy of the patronage of her friends. She systematically promotes these for a period of three months.

Would you undertake making frosting for a cake as tall as you are?

FROSTING, more than anything else, demands exactness and control in cooking. Therefore, it is best to make it in small quantities.

Coffee-roasting must be exact also, or the flavor will vary. That's why Hills Bros. do not roast coffee in bulk. Controlled Roasting is their method—a continuous process that roasts only a few pounds at a time. The flavor is perfectly controlled because every berry is roasted evenly.

No other coffee can taste like Hills Bros. Coffee because none is roasted the same way. All of the delicious aroma and flavor produced by Controlled Roasting is brought to you complete because the coffee is sealed in vacuum tins as it comes from the roasters.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

As you make fine frosting, so Hills Bros roast coffee. A few pounds at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—produces the perfect flavor.

BRIAND'S STATESMANSHIP

One of the most striking and historic addresses of the century was that made by Premier Briand before the League of Nations assembly at Geneva. It was a really great speech by a really great statesman. It was delivered before the leading statesmen of Europe and an audience of distinguished men and women representing all nations. The tumultuous ovation which greeted its delivery was supporting evidence of its intrinsic worth.

Briand's address was a tribute to the League of Nations for having demonstrated its soundness in the face of sneering and sarcastic taunts, and for having already performed a service in the cause of international peace and prevention of war "unparalleled in the history of the world." As a plain recital of major facts, it makes all of the indictments aimed at the League look petty and cheap.

While M. Briand kept the virile and commanding figure of the League in the background throughout his speech, he did not confine it exclusively to that subject. He made an impassioned yet reasoned demand for peace that will be heard around the world and that will echo for decades to come. He asked that war be absolutely abolished and that nations who believe in peace should obligate themselves not only to outlaw war themselves but to punish in some effective manner any nation which would resort to war.

The most dramatic phase of the famous French orator's appeal was directed to the women of the world. In this appeal he exhibited surpassing knowledge of human psychology and of modern tendencies. In the last twenty years the women of the civilized nations have become a force in the body politic that must hereafter be reckoned with in all questions pertaining to morals, social and economic life and pre-eminently peace.

M. Briand says that war is inexcusable, barbaric and an indefensible crime against the human race. We believe he is right. We believe the conscience of the civilized world is of the same opinion. Furthermore, we believe it is practical to put this ideal into effect and make it control. The statesmen who are now thrashing about in a labyrinth of technical and theoretical reasons why war is still necessary and why it is too early to expect universal peace, are not statesmen at all. They are politicians obsessed with an idea and their own ego.

The doctrine proclaimed by M. Briand at Geneva is the only valid, far-sighted and Christian statesmanship of the twentieth century. It states the one international policy capable of support and defense. The United States, which has less to gain and more to lose from war than any of the great nations and which is nevertheless least vulnerable to attack, ought to be engaged in precisely the same leadership so well represented by Aristide Briand. It should be throwing its enormous and irresistible weight in the scales for effective, compulsory peace. It should get out of its head the thought that war is necessary and cannot be abolished. It professes not to suspect itself, but the other nations of the world. It is a false premise from which a false conclusion is reached.

There is statesmanship in other nations like that voiced by M. Briand. All that is required is to bring it forth and make it predominate. A sympathetic, popular indorsement awaits it in all lands. If you want to know what is inescapable, what is inevitable, what the world is most certainly coming to, read M. Briand's speech at Geneva and when politicians give voice to pessimism and contrary views, keep it in mind and remember that truth and righteousness, in the words of Lincoln, ultimately prevail.

AVIATION OF THE FUTURE

The successful circumnavigation of the world by the Graf Zeppelin presents aviation in new and larger terms. It reveals what may be expected of the future. Small indeed would be the imagination that would limit the possibilities of flying in the face of what has resulted from the steam engine, the electric motor, the automobile, radio and many other achievements of science and engineering. The "first" of everything naturally grips the emotions and mind. But the first is likewise small in comparison with what it unfolds in time.

The feat of the Graf Zeppelin is truly wonderful. Even in an age of marvels we applaud it with enthusiasm, we shower its builders and navigators with praise and admiration. But the day will come, perhaps it is not so far off, when the Graf's victory over the elements will look like the performances of the "funny" locomotives of the early 19th century and the tiny steamboats of the same period.

The future of aviation and of aerial navigation in all forms is unlimited. It is still in its infancy, still crude and unperfected in many respects. If we could see its performances one hundred years hence we would scarcely believe our eyes. What the Graf Zeppelin has done simply prepares us for what is to follow.

LINDBERGH SEES LIGHT

Col. Lindbergh has been notoriously reporter-shy. Few Americans have ever shunned publicity as he has. Lately his attitude has been not only uncommunicative but hostile. For this he has had considerable provocation. News-gatherers have intruded too much in his private life. But it has seemed to the profession that he carried the thing too far.

All at once there has been evidence of a change. Lindbergh has started submitting to interviews with good grace. He has grown remarkably communicative—for him. He has even called up newspapers to give them interviews. He grows veritably news-minded. It looks as if this gifted and likable young man has seen a light.

His truculent attitude was not doing him or aviation any good. It will be better all round if he can manage a friendly, easy manner with the news-gatherers right along. And as he gets better acquainted with reporters, on a basis of mutual interest, he will come to fear them less and trust them more. When he gives legitimate news more readily, they will bother him less for illegitimate news. He will find that they can keep confidences. He will be able to come and go in greater freedom. Mrs. Lindbergh is given some of the credit for this change of front. It is not for nothing that she is the daughter of a diplomat.

SMELLS IN INDUSTRY

French industrial chemists are making glue smell like violets and axle grease like roses. Imitation leather is given the fragrance of genuine Russia. Here is a new idea which may be found profitable in business. Colors have done much to overcome sales resistance in a glutted market, odors may do more. It is easy to think of many lines of merchandise to which this remedy may be applied.

Gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oil are promising candidates for fragrance. Still more are banana oil and the strangling lacquers now so widely used. There might be some coal tar essence which, if a few drops were put into cylinder oil or gasoline at every filling, would make the exhaust fumes smell like sweet clover or balsam boughs. It might be made a pleasure to work in ill-smelling trades—tanning, for instance. Drugs now offensive might be sweetened up by this procedure. Asafetida might take on the allure of mint-scented chewing gum. Foodstuffs afford a good field for experimentation. Certain cheeses would benefit greatly by such treatment.

Still, a lot of unrefined persons probably wouldn't like it. They would miss the old, familiar smells, and be homesick for them. And the problem of identifying substances with the nose would become complicated.

The glands of the Dicotyledonous or "gas plant" in the rock gardens at Kaw, England, contain a highly combustible oil. On touching the plant with a match the flame shoots all over it as fast as lightning. The flame does not damage the plant.

"Nixie" is the name given by the Post Office Department to all pieces of mail which cannot be delivered because the address is defective.

New Guinet is considered the second largest island in the world. It has an area of 330,000 square miles.

Geniuses seldom are the children of young parents.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Thomas Edison once accepted an invitation to a convention banquet on condition that the entertainment include an animal act. The wizard of Orange, it seems, is especially fond of the dumber type of entertainers. So his hosts hired a trained crow and an equally gifted seal for the particular delight of their distinguished guest.

Yet the inventor's preference is hardly as singular as it seems. It is only an indication of reported changes generally in the diversion provided for good-will parties—an important aid to big business, by the way.

GOOD WILL PARTIES
It used to be that barefoot hip-twisters or other lewels of song and dance, were demanded when the National Association of Button Hole Engineers got together. The Super Steel Pipe Corporation, at its annual dinner for purchasing agents, would depend upon a shimmy artist to shake the orders out of the guests.

And there still are stag parties and private apartment orgies where the hotcha-cha type of entertainment prevails. But, says Frances Rockefeller, a relative of the oil man, who supplies talent for such purposes, the favorites now are circus acts, mind readers and omniologists—artists less stimulating, perhaps, but more amusing.

Rowdy Fast
Miss King herself has endeavored to bring about reform.

In former years the parties were inclined to be rowdy. One organization that met annually in the Waldorf-Astoria was notoriously obnoxious. Its discussions usually winding up in a airing of personal grievances, followed by a brawl.

The year Miss King took charge she booked a couple of high-class vaudeville acts for the banquet. But nevertheless the Waldorf management erected a fence in the ballroom, with the barbed wire along the top, to keep the guests from climbing over into the entertainers' section. The hotel was taking chances, but under the spell of refined amusement there was no disorder that night.

Miss King's greatest success, however, was at the annual party John McEntree Bowman gave other hotel men at the Commodore in 1923. A complete circus, except for the elephants, was laid out in the lobby and ballroom. Only the pachyderms being barred because the floor was not considered strong enough to hold them. The ringmaster was John Ringling.

ENLIVENING THE PARTY
Professional artists also play for the parties in private homes, and, although no host since Harry Lehr has been known to have a monkey as a guest, an inspired young man not long ago tried to hire an elephant on which he intended to make his entrance at a Providence, R. I., garden fete.

Usually, the entertainment host engages singers, mind readers and the like. He doesn't need dancers, for nowadays, with almost every debutante mastering tap routines, there's plenty of hoofing talent among the guests.

Today's Anniversary

MCKINLEY ASSASSINATED

William McKinley, 25th president of the United States, was fatally shot by an assassin while attending an exposition in Buffalo, N. Y., on Sept. 6, 1901.

McKinley held a public reception in the temple of music, in an exposition grounds, on the afternoon of the 6th and it was then that the shooting took place.

The one fatal bullet of the two fired was found to have passed through both walls of his stomach, but due to the president's sound constitution it was at first believed he would recover. But he suddenly underwent a change for the worse and died Sept. 14.

The assassin was identified as Leon Czolgosz, a Pole, having reputable parents in Cleveland, O., but who had come under the anarchist influence and had been taught to believe that all heads of government were enemies of the people and ought to be killed.

The assassin was arraigned in county court Sept. 17 and on the 26th was sentenced to be executed, in the state prison at Auburn, within the week beginning Oct. 23.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, Sept. 5, 1919

Crowds which cheered and with waving flags struggled to break through police lines and swarmed about his automobile, greeted President Wilson in St. Louis that day.

Miss Alberta Schweitzer entertained 12 friends at her home on Seventh-st. the previous evening.

At a meeting of the Knights of Columbus the previous evening the following officers were elected: Grand Knight, F. J. Rooney; deputy knight, C. E. Mullen; Chancellor, John Hensel, Jr.; financial secretary, Henry M. Marx; recording secretary, William J. Marx; treasurer, Walter Steenis.

Miss C. A. Robinson, manager of the ready to wear department of the Gloucesters-Gage company, entertained a group of 15 young ladies at a dinner in the French room of the Sherman House the evening before in honor of Miss Ida Ory, a former employee, who was soon to be married.

Mrs. George Eberhardt, Mrs. Blanche Kubitz, Mrs. Maria Culbertson, Mrs. John Graef, and Mrs. K. S. Rhodes were elected delegates to the state convention at Oshkosh at the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union the previous evening.

Raymond Reider was a visitor at DePere the previous day.

STAMINA, VIGOR AND HEALTH

Queries come frequently like this:

"I've often read that most people do not breathe deeply enough, so I have started to train myself to breathe deeply by forced deep breathing.

Do you think that I will learn to breathe deeply, naturally, in this way?"

"I have heard that forced deep breathing may lead to tuberculosis.

Is this true?"

"I timed myself when breathing deeply and found that I breathe from 18 to 20 times a minute. Is this fast enough? I am 19 years old."

"Probably the young man read about 'deep breathing' in one of those

'health' magazines that glorify exercise as a panacea, and provide a market place for all sorts of mail order humbugs, especially short cuts to "superb manhood," "personality,"

"amazing vitality" and all that sort of humbug.

No one can change his breathing habit by any such silly effort. Breathing is an automatic process, and one can no more modify the depth or rate of breathing by "training oneself to breathe deeply" than one could change the winking of one's eyelids by practicing slow or fast winking.

There is no foundation for the notion that deep breathing may lead to tuberculosis.

The normal rate of breathing for an adult at rest is 16 or 18 breaths a minute. That's fast enough—or slow enough.

I should advise this young man and others who may share his fancies about deep breathing, to pay no special attention to the breathing; it will regulate itself in any case. Go in for such exercise, play, work, as you may need, and leave the breathing to nature.

Perhaps it is due in part to ill advised constructive attention to breathing that many persons do not breathe naturally, but endeavor to breathe with the chest almost exclusively, having garnered from

that a large chest expansion is essential for vigor and vitality.

It is notable that physicians examining patients give no consideration at all to chest expansion when investigating the state of the chest organs—except when making for some meekish insurance company that cherishes ancient methods. An individual with an exceptionally large chest expansion is as likely to have tuberculosis or heart disease as is one with a very small expansion.

The natural way to breathe is with the diaphragm mainly. When the diaphragm contracts, air is drawn in to the lungs, the stomach, liver and other abdominal organs are pressed downward and the belly bulges or expands. The skilled anesthetist watches the rhythmic rise and fall of the belly and not the movement of the chest, to make sure the patient is breathing naturally, under anesthesia. Even in natural sleep, the breathing is almost wholly diaphragmatic.

The diaphragm is a voluntary muscle, to be sure, yet it is under automatous control and had better be

In the same mail with the young man's query comes a circular describing a gadget that purports to do a lazy sucker's exercise for him, and the prospect is assured that the purchase of the gadget will give him

"sufficient stamina and vitality to ward off disease."

How come? There is absolutely no connection between physical or circular condition and immunity. It is high time that this kind of fraud was suppressed, if there's enough stamina in dollar worshipping

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Letter for Hives and Other Itching

Will you be good enough to give this recipe for the lotion you recomended for the relief of itching in hives and other skin rashes. (Mrs. D.

G.)

Answer—It is familiar to physicians as calamine lotion, but the formula I recommend contains also a small proportion of phenol, where itching is intense. Mix in a pint bottle two ounces of 5 per cent carbolic solution (this strength druggists may sell without prescription), two drams of glycerin, one ounce of zinc oxide

and one ounce of calamine, and add enough lime water to fill the bottle.

Be sure you have all five ingredients.

Directions: Calamine Lotion. Shake

the bottle. Rub on with fingers as often as desired to relieve itching.

The calamine lotion may be made up without the carbolic solution (us-

JOHN COOLIDGE TO WED FLORENCE IN THREE WEEKS

Plainville, Conn.—(C)—Fewer than 100 persons will attend the wedding of Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor John H. Trumbull, of Connecticut, and Major John Coolidge, son of former President Calvin Coolidge, in the Congregational church here on the afternoon of Sept. 23. About 400 have been invited to the reception at the Trumbull home following the ceremony. Miss Trumbull said today that she was planned to have only members of the Trumbull and Coolidge families and a small number of friends at the church ceremony. The reception guests will include members and relatives of the two families and prominent persons of Connecticut.

BY ANNEBELL WORTHINGTON

The grouped shirred panels of skirt, give a charming flattery flare to hemline in printed silk crepe in feminine tones, a lovely choice for immediate and all Fall wear. The wide crushed girle that hugs the hips with shirred sides, is of blending tone plain silk. Shirring is repeated in front shoulders which provide a nice fullness across bust. The deep open collarless V-shaped neckline is very becoming and chic. Choose now! It will all new interest to your daytime wardrobe. It's an economical choice too. Style No. 2879 can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is easily made, and at a worthwhile saving. Paris says "brown" for resort, and as it is also highlighted for Fall season, you'll like this model especially in soft shades of brown chiffon with girle of matching shade sheer velvet. Flowered chiffon in pastel hues, silk crepe in almost green, tomato red silk crepe, chardonnay green georgette crepe, and printed chiffon voile in yellow-beige and brown tones are smartly appropriate. Pattern price 15 cents. Be sure to fill in size of pattern. Address Pattern Department. The Large Fashion Magazine is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern.

CLUB MEETINGS

Plans for the winter's activities of the Appleton Philatelic society were made by the members of the organization at a meeting in the Green room of the Conway hotel Thursday evening. A 6:30 dinner preceded the business discussion.

Members of the K. O. club were entertained Thursday evening at a party given by Miss Louise Otto. Eight members and one guest, Miss Louise Wendt, Green Valley, were present. The next meeting will be held Sept. 17, at the home of Miss Minnie Bruggeman, 307 S. Weimar-st.

The J. F. F. club met Thursday evening at the home of Miss Goldine Massonette, N. Packard-st. The evening was spent in sewing. Seven members were present. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of the Misses Hilda and Isabelle Roemer, W. Harris-st.

LODGE NEWS

The first visiting day of the season for Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles was held Wednesday afternoon at Eagle hall. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. W. Brandes, at schafkopf by Mrs. A. Zuehlke and Mrs. J. Wilhelm, and at dice by Mrs. J. Schvett and Mrs. A. Bette. Refreshments were served by the committee headed by Mrs. Theresa Schiltz. A business meeting will take place next Wednesday.

John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay, met Thursday evening at Masonic temple. Regular business was discussed. Election of officers was postponed until next Thursday. Twelve members were present.

Members of Royal Neighbors met Thursday night at Odd Fellow hall and initiated a candidate. After the business session cards were played and prizes were won at schafkopf by Mrs. Augusta Leuders, and at chess by Mrs. Lenora Bauman. The next meeting will be Sept. 19.

United Commercial Travelers will open their winter activities with a business meeting at 7:30 Saturday night at Odd Fellow hall. General business that has accumulated during the summer as well as plans for the coming season will be discussed.

The Auxiliary to the United Commercial Travelers will meet at 7:30 Saturday night at Odd Fellow hall. After the business meeting, a social hour will be held at which cards will be played.

AID SOCIETY MAKES DRESSES FOR MISSIONS

Plans for a bazaar in the fall were made at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of St. Paul Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the parish hall. The date of the event will be set at the next meeting. The members decided to make 50 children's dresses ranging in size from four to fourteen years, to be sent to the Indian missions in Arizona. They will be sent about Nov. 1 in order that they may reach the missions by Christmas. Gifts will be sent with the dresses. A social hour followed the business meeting and refreshments were served. The committee included Mrs. Herman Schulze, Mrs. Herman Teske, Mrs. William Strey, Mrs. Henry Sager, Mrs. Otto Schultz, Mrs. Henry Spritzer, Mrs. William Senowar, and Mrs. Arthur Schroeder. About 65 members were present.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Mrs. B. Pekarske was the new member admitted into the Ladies Aid of Mt. Olive Lutheran church at the meeting Thursday afternoon at Pierce park. Plans were made for the annual towel shower to be held the next meeting day for the sanctuary at Wheatridge, Colo. Each member is requested to bring a plain white bath towel and washcloth. It was reported that 15 garments had been sent to the Indian missions in Arizona during the past month. Mrs. Armin Knoke was chairman of the committee which included Mrs. Henry Jahnke, Mrs. H. Kuentz, Mrs. E. Plaman, Mrs. H. Prieb, Mrs. E. Peters, Mrs. C. Radder, Mrs. E. Ring, Mrs. H. Schuman, and Miss Lucy Schultz. The next meeting will be held the first Thursday in October.

Special communion services will be observed at Mount Olive Lutheran church at 10:35 Sunday morning, according to the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer. During the past few months services started at 9:15 in the morning, but starting Sunday, services will go back to the regular schedule at 10:35. Sunday school classes will start at 9:15 in the morning instead of according to the summer schedule, at 8:10.

There will be a joint meeting of the Senior and Junior Young People's societies of St. Matthew Lutheran church in the church parlors following regular Bible study next Tuesday evening, according to the Rev. Phillip Froehlich, pastor. Bible study will be resumed for the fall and winter months at 7:30 Tuesday evening.

The Ladies Aid society of First Reformed church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Wickesberg, Kernan-ave. Mrs. Peter Ryser led the business and devotion at meeting. Plans were discussed for the annual mission day which will take place Sept. 22. Fourteen members were present. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. William Grimmer, N. Morrison-st.

The Women's Missionary society of First English Lutheran church will hold a meeting Sept. 19 at the church. Arrangements for the mission day were made for the mission day church at Oshkosh to take place Sept. 25 in the morning and afternoon.

The Holy Name society of St. Theresa church will approach Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass Sunday. Breakfast will be served at the parish hall after mass by the Christian Mothers society. John Morgan will be the speaker at the breakfast.

Mrs. Charles Goldbeck and Mrs. William Behle entertained members of Circle No. 7 of the Congregational church Thursday afternoon at the home of the latter on route 6. Plans for the coming year were discussed and a social hour followed. Mrs. Ben Vanover was in charge of the business meeting. About 22 members were present.

The ladies of St. Theresa church will serve a chicken dinner at noon Sept. 29 at the parish hall. Mrs. John Wood, president, will be assisted by the captains of the various groups. The public is invited.

Plans were made and committees appointed for the Christmas bazaar at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of First English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. C. H. Huesemann and Mrs. H. Fenske were appointed to serve on the general committee, the counter committee is composed of Mrs. E. Sager, Mrs. A. Rehm, and Mrs. E. McGregor, and the kitchen committee includes Mrs. D. Hohn, Mrs. H. Kram, and Mrs. G. Mueller. Routine business was transacted.

Those who will attend the session are Arthur Kahler, and Howard Schmidt of the Senior Olive branch, and Carl Voelck, Rueben Schultz and Raymonds Nehls of the Senior Young Peoples society.

PARTIES

The alumnae chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota sorority entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday at the Candle Glow team room in honor of Miss Mildred Evans whose marriage to Dr. F. Butler, Clifton, Ark., will take place soon. Following the luncheon, bridge was played at the home of Mrs. William Schubert, Prospect-ave. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Edwin Voight and Mrs. William Schubert. Miss Evans was given a guest prize. Out of town guests included Miss Helen Haerli, Neenah; Miss Viola Buntrock, Ephraim; and Mrs. Warren Wright, Wausau. Thirteen guests were present.

Sixteen girls of the First National bank and the First Trust company entertained at a linen shower in the Blue room of the Conway hotel Thursday evening in honor of Miss Eleanor Patzer, who will be married to Melvin Boese Saturday. A 6:30 dinner was followed by the playing of cards, with prizes going to Mrs. Irene Radtke and Miss Elizabeth Elfeldt.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornel Van Schyndel, Little Chute, entertained at their home Sunday evening in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary. Dancing and music provided the entertainment. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Van Hoogan and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Den Wyat and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. George and family, Mrs. Peter Langveit, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Van Langveit, George Gritten, Mary Wigman, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Knabnbauer, and Jerome Knabnbauer, Appleton.

Miss Beulah Pasch, 1315 N. Harrison-st., entertained a number of friends Thursday evening at a card party at her home. Out of town guests were Harold Nola and Clarence Liothan, Kaukauna.

It was Jack Thornton on the other end of the telephone line. "I'm very sorry to bother you," he began. Sue felt her heart skip a beat as his slow, warm tones came over the phone. "But I won't be in the office tomorrow. I'm going up to the middle of the state on a clue about the missing heiress. Do you think you could manage to get my account switched to Sybil's treasury? I'll leave the desk and necessary papers on the desk and I've called the cashier, so it's O.K. I wasn't very polite this afternoon and I'm repenting."

CHICAGO RAIL HEAD SPEAKS AT DIVISION SAFETY CONFERENCE

Leads for Cooperation Between Officers and Railroad Employees

G. B. Vilas, Chicago, general manager of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company was the principal speaker at a meeting of officers, supervising officers and foreman of the Lake Shore division at Green Bay Thursday afternoon. Appleton railroad employees at the meeting were W. W. Fradenburg, yardmaster; Charles Potter, chief clerk; William Bohren, warehouse foreman; Henry Luedtke, bridge foreman; Herman Teske, section foreman; Paul Hackbert and John Branchford. Prevention of accidents was the theme of the talk given by Mr. Vilas, who recently took charge of the safe department which heretofore was handled by the claim prevention department.

"The conversion of workmen to safe working habits, in a long and arduous process, at the best, and is predestined to failure unless the directing officer is unafraid and unhampered to go before his men, at intervals, and earnestly and convincingly assure them of his wish to go with them in working out their objective," he said.

"One of the first duties of a superior officer must be to feel and show a kindly interest in his men, and give them the right viewpoint in their relationship with the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company," Mr. Vilas stated.

Other speakers on the same subject were J. S. Rice, Green Bay, superintendent; Harry Parish, Chicago, assistant general manager; G. Flanders, Green Bay, assistant superintendent; G. Dunham, Chicago, ad of car department; W. W. Fradenburg, Appleton, yardmaster; William McConnell, Green Bay, roadmaster; P. A. Fries, Fond du Lac, admaster; Arthur Wurl, Green Bay, master car builder; Clifford Dyson, Fond du Lac, master car builder; W. K. Schaefer, Oshkosh, yardmaster.

Following the afternoon meeting a dinner was served at Hotel Northland after which the group adjourned to the Elks club building for motion pictures of operations in the railroad company's yards. Motion pictures of Lake Shore division athletic contests also were shown.

Maennerchor Meets. The Appleton Maennerchor met for rehearsal in the Maennerchor rooms on W. College-ave Thursday evening. A short business meeting preceded the weekly practice period. A. J. Theiss is director of the organization.

ENDURANCE FLYER TO MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT

Wichita, Kas. —(AP)—Forced down here on an attempted cross country refueling endurance flight in his monoplane "City of Baltimore," George R. Hutchinson, owner-pilot, plans to return to Baltimore for another start, probably next Sunday. Hutchinson and his co-pilot, Lieut. William L. Snowden and A. G. Graham, took off from the Maryland city at 7:20 a. m. Wednesday and landed here at 9 a. m. yesterday after an unsuccessful attempt to take on fuel.

The owner-pilot had announced that the second attempt to make the flight would be from Wichita, but later altered his plans to go to Detroit to have the ship's three fuel tanks rearranged.

SEEK FUNDS HERE TO AID PALESTINE JEWS

Committee Is Appointed to Receive Subscriptions in Campaign

A strong appeal has been made to the people throughout the United States to promptly contribute funds to relieve the appalling distress that has been caused in Palestine and throughout the Holy Land on account of the insurrection caused by the Arabs. It is necessary that large sums of money be raised promptly to relieve the distress that has been caused by these revolts.

A committee has been appointed in Appleton, consisting of I. Bahcall, L. J. Marshall, Samuel Sigman, Jack Shapiro and J. P. Frank, to receive and collect funds for this purpose.

A personal solicitation is now being made by the members of this committee, but any one interested in contributing toward this worthy purpose may do so by sending their checks to any of the above named members of this committee, it was said.

WAUPACA WALTONS PUT BIRDS IN NEW REFUGE

Waupaca, Wis. —(AP)—Chain o' Lakes chapter, Izaak Walton league of America, has liberated 55 young pheasants on the new 1,400 acre game refuge the chapter sponsored this year.

The tract was planted in spots, with soy beans, buckwheat, and sweet corn. The pheasants were grown here by local Waltonians, but the chapter has petitioned the conservation commission for more birds.

This chapter has also, during the present season, planted several thousand brook and German brown trout in local lakes and streams.

CHIROPRACTORS FROWN ON BASIC SCIENCE LAWS

Omaha, Neb. —(AP)—Resolutions condemning the basic science laws, in effect in many states, were adopted by the International Congress of Chiropractors in closing its convention here late last night. The resolutions also voiced opposition to all legislation which might hamper chiropractors in the practice of their profession.

The entire group of International Association officers were re-elected. They are Dr. Ralph John, Hollywood, Calif., president; Dr. John A. Ohlson, Louisville, Ky., vice president; Dr. Anna M. Foy, Topeka, Kans., treasurer and Dr. Harry Gallaher, Guthrie, Okla., secretary.

Denver, Colo., was selected as the meeting place for next year.

KOHLER DEPLORES PALESTINE RIOTS

Madison —(AP)—Governor Kohler sent this telegram to William Z. Spiegelman, editor of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, New York, in connection with the recent riots in Palestine:

"In common with all good citizens I deeply deplore the present conflict in Palestine and the hazard and suffering to which it exposes large numbers of Jewish people including some who are citizens of the United States. I hope that the situation will be promptly brought under control with the restoration of tranquillity and safety."

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Courtney returned to their home in Coral Gables, Fla., after spending the summer months with relatives in this city.

LIGHTNING STRIKES TELEPHONE CO. CABLE

Lightning Wednesday evening struck a Wisconsin Telephone company cable near the town of Greenville on Highway 10 and cut off service until late Thursday afternoon, according to a report of the service department at the local telephone exchange. Communication between Appleton and Greenville was shut off until 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

WISEHAUPT TALKS ON PERSONALITY IN LECTURE TONIGHT

Sparks Fly as Business Analyst Discusses Appleton Follies and Foibles

The high school auditorium undoubtedly will be packed tonight to hear Howard J. Wischaupt deliver his lecture on Personality in Business, the fourth of a series of five scheduled for his visit in Appleton. Mr. Wischaupt is the nationally known business analyst brought here by The Appleton Chamber of Commerce and The Appleton Post-Crescent to tell Appleton people a few things good for them to hear and thus far he has been living up to his advance notices.

The talk tonight is said to be the real climax of his visit. Possessing a splendid personality himself, Ho-knows what good personality means and he knows how to tell other people that personality counts for something in business.

Wischaupt has been making sparks fly since his arrival here last Monday. Starting right off Monday noon he landed a few haymakers on the jaws of sleepy businessmen. Monday night he whacked a few lusty strokes at the lazy bones on College avenue and last night he jolted Appleton's "culture" with well directed pokes to the ribs. Wischaupt possesses the faculty of saying some rather mean things about people right to their faces and making them like it. He doesn't believe in patting them on the back and telling them what nice fellows they are when he knows they are only half as good as they think they are, so he tells them right out in meeting just what's what and he's getting away with it.

The result has been that attendance at his meetings is increasing every night and a capacity is assured for tonight. The meeting starts promptly at 8 o'clock and it might be well for people to go to the high school auditorium a little early tonight to be sure of a seat.

WAUPACA, GREEN BAY NAMED CENSUS CENTERS

Washington, D. C. —(AP)—The first of the fourteen district census supervisors for Wisconsin was named on Thursday by the census bureau of the department of commerce. He is Rudolph S. Scheibel of the Madison district.

Coming with the announcement of the first Wisconsin appointee was the information that the other thirteen positions, considered choice political plums, would be filled within a short time.

Headquarters in the state yet to be filled are Milwaukee, two; Oshkosh, Superior, Ashland, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Waupaca, Green Bay, La Crosse, Watertown, Dodgeville, and Racine.

Unusual interest is being manifest in the Wisconsin appointments for it offers one of the first real chances to watch the division of federal patronage as a result of a split among congressmen and senators during the last presidential campaign.

PEOPLE WELCOME BAND INSTRUCTION IN HIGH SCHOOL

Hope to Find Able Instructor to Carry on Work at Neenah

Neenah—The plan to organize a band among the school pupils here has met with the approval of the majority of people. The lack of a band in football or basketball tournaments and games has been felt. It is understood that a well known director will be engaged. Mrs. Helen K. Stuart, has offered to donate $2,000 toward making the band a success. The city also has offered to assist the school board in financing the purchase of instruments enough to organize a band of from 45 to 50 persons. A room is to be set aside in one of the schools for practice. The band will be open to boys and girls alike and applications will be received from students from the sixth grades up through high school. The school at present has an orchestra course which will be continued as there are some who prefer the string instruments to the brass instruments of a band and there are places where the musicians can play in both.

NEENAH PERSONALS

Miss Amanda Ehrlich, Fred Kehl, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Schultz visited Mrs. Loretta Bergshier at Green Bay Thursday evening.

Leon Brakke is at Milwaukee arranging for resuming his studies at the Wisconsin School of Engineering.

Lottery Prizes Luring Tolls From Italians

BY ANDRUE BERDING

Rome—(AP)—Public lotteries, run by municipalities and the state, with huge sums as prizes, have taken so tremendous a hold upon the public that the headquarters of the lottery at Rome have been transferred from the Via dell' Umbria to the Firenze palace.

Public lotteries are part of the Italian life, and bring to the state such comfortable amounts that there is little thought of ever giving them up. Besides, they are hallowed by centuries of sanction.

Every week there is a new drawing of lucky numbers in Rome, Turin, Naples, Milan, Bologna, Florence, and every town and district. Henceforth this drawing will be made, so far as Rome is concerned, in the historic Firenze palace, where Mussolini holds some of his most important government meetings.

The drawing is done by a child of tender years, usually an orphan, in order that no charge of "crookedness" may be made. The youngster plunges his hand into an equivalent of a jury wheel and draws out five numbers, each of which is less than one hundred.

Betting is done in various ways, but always through tickets purchased from men on principal street corners. The better way wagers his money on an "ambo," that is, on two of the five numbers, on a "terno," or three, a "quaterno," or four, and a "quina," or all five.

If the two numbers he has bet

Little Relief for Starving Millions Is Seen as Rain Holds Off

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS

Canton, China—(AP)—There will be little relief for China's starving millions this fall if the crop statistics are correct in their calculations.

This will be especially true in the South China provinces of Kwangsi and Kwangtung, where the principal crop, rice, is below normal. There are 49,000,000 people in the provinces and the normal rice crop is about 4,000,000 short tons.

Spring rainfall this year was 25 per cent less than average in Kwangsi and Kwangtung, so the farmers have passed through one of the most serious droughts in 50 years. Large provincial cities depending on rain for their water supplies have forced serious shortages of the precious liquid and even the British Colony of Hongkong endured a two months' dry spell that drained every reserve reservoir.

Thousands went thirsty and water was shipped in from Shanghai and Manila by chartered steamer.

Back in the interior, conditions were worse. And now the Chinese farmer is wondering where his winter provisions are coming from. To satisfy the city consumer, merchants throughout South China contracted for September deliveries of rice from Singapore, Siam and Indo-China. It is also anticipated that there will be a substantial increase in American wheat flour imports, although money spent on luxuries and foreign made goods will be less than last year.

Estimates of the first rice crop place the yield at between 20 and 40 per cent of normal. Coupled with the fact that there was a 70 per cent reduction in the yield of the second rice crop last fall, due also to drought, the shortage this year will have serious consequences.

Rice farmers near rivers and canals resorted to irrigation and in their fields the crop is practically assured. Such fields, however, are few and far between and the crop they produce will be small compared with the amount needed.

The most lamentable fact about the situation is that the farmer will need two or three years to re-

SENATE HALTS TARIFF WAR FOR WEEKEND

Readers on Both Sides
Working to Solidify
Their Forces

Washington —(AP)—A weekend suspension of hostilities today confined activities in the senate's tariff war to those quiet maneuvers by which congressional leaders seek to solidify their forces and improve their plans for future stratagems.

On Monday at noon, the Armistice will end. Then, the parliamentary battle will be resumed in earnest, with debate centering upon the administrative provisions of the tariff bill, already the center of a heated dispute.

By an agreement between Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader and Senator Borah of Idaho, spokesmen to the western Republican independents, an effort to restrict revision of existing tariff rates of agriculture or to recommit a measure, will be postponed until after the bill has been drawn up by the republican members of the senate finance committee.

Robinson and Borah, who together represent the two groups of a coalition that sums up the opposition to a Republican bill, met late yesterday and canvassed the situation thoroughly reaching an agreement regarding plans for immediate procedure.

MAJORITY RECONSIDER SECTIONS
A motion for consideration of the administrative sections of the measure will be made by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking Democrat of the finance committee, at not until after he has sought a vote on his own proposal that the treasury furnish income tax information, with respect to the profits and losses in recent years of individuals and corporations who would be affected by proposed tariff revisions.

Major General Allen's command from Koblenz, the Yankee contingent had dwindled to a third the size of a wartime infantry regiment. The smallest force at present in the region is Belgium's—2,800 men which she, in sympathy with England, has agreed to reduce by evacuating the ten-year zone.

Not since the transport St. Mihiel landed the last thousand regulars from the Rhineland at Savannah, Charleston and New York has Washington had any connection with military sanctions for enforcement of peace treaties terms.

The whitening down of Allen's force was in line with the policy of President Harding and Secretary Hughes to decrease Germany's economic burdens to facilitate a reparations settlement.

France, however, pressed for military occupation of the Ruhr, to compel payments which Germany declared were outside her capacity.

Into this situation Secretary Hughes threw himself. In his famous New Haven speech he pointed the road ultimately toward the Dawes reparations plan.

January 10, 1923, word came officially to Washington that occupation would be carried through by France. A year earlier the state department had successfully opposed the war department's desire to withdraw Allen's troops on the ground the action might have an adverse influence on the reparations problem in Europe, from which Washington stood right aloof.

French determination to proceed with the occupation changed the whole face of affairs. After a conference with Hughes the War Secretary Weeks, President Harding announced that orders had gone to Allen for immediate and final evacuation.

Only a handful of American soldiers connected with the graves registration service were to remain.

American withdrawal created regret in Paris. French officials felt it would be construed in Berlin as a rebuke to France and stiffen German resistance to French and other allied reparations demands.

The Washington government was unmoved. It was not to be doubted that the order calculated as a direct expression of American lack of sympathy with French policy.

In England opinion was divided. Some leaders urged that British troops also be recalled; others that they remain, while taking no part in further occupation. The latter counsel prevailed.

For the United States, however, withdrawal of the last men cleared the air. It left American policy free to deal with economic and other non-military aspects of the reparations problem and to press the offer of unofficial American aid in solution of that difficulty.

Uniform Air Laws Urged By Commerce Department

Washington —(AP)—The need of uniform state laws to control intra-state air commerce is urged by the department of commerce.

Under the air commerce act the aeronautics branch of the department can only impose regulations on aircraft and aviators operating in interstate commerce. It has no jurisdiction over unlicensed planes and pilots operating within a state. Most of the intrastate operators and aviators, however, have come in voluntarily under the act.

"Thus far at least," the department said, "all aircraft and aviators are not airworthy or competent. Some are disapproved for various reasons when they are inspected or examined by field representatives of the department of commerce. In such cases there is but one alternative either to acquiring airworthy aircraft or improving their ability as aviators, and that is to resort to intrastate operations in a state having no law, or the incorrect law.

"Unfortunately, it is this class of aircraft and aviators which has been contributing in a large measure to the recent aircraft accidents with resulting injuries, fatal and otherwise, to both passengers and pilots."

The remedy, the department said, requires suitable legislation which, among other things, must take into consideration the imperative need of uniformity in the laws throughout the country in the matter of airworthiness of aircraft and the competency of fliers.

"Once in the air," the department pointed out, "there can be no distinction between the intrastate and interstate character of an airplane. It must be equally airworthy and the pilot must be equally competent. The same rules of passing, signalling, crossing and landing must apply."

In states where it may be done constitutionally, the department suggested that legislation be adopted requiring aviators to be federally licensed. Where such a law would be unconstitutional, regulations identical with the federal requirements are urged.

Free to Deal With Non-military Problems

BY KIRKE SIMPSON
Washington —(AP)—As allied and German conferees have been struggling along in the Young plan discussion at the Hague, America could well sigh with relief at one of the parley's aspects — final evacuation of the Rhineland.

Departure of the last United States troops from occupied sections of Germany six years ago marked the lifting of a burden from Washington which has not returned to trouble it.

Recent developments in the reparations fuss, with England willing to take her remaining 6,000 Tommies out and France standing pat on keeping her 54,000 there, recalls the sudden withdrawal of the residue of American troops from Coblenz in 1923.

A year before the war department sought permission to bring home Major General Allen's command from Koblenz, the Yankee contingent had dwindled to a third the size of a wartime infantry regiment. The smallest force at present in the region is Belgium's—2,800 men which she, in sympathy with England, has agreed to reduce by evacuating the ten-year zone.

Not since the transport St. Mihiel landed the last thousand regulars from the Rhineland at Savannah, Charleston and New York has Washington had any connection with military sanctions for enforcement of peace treaties terms.

FEWER MARRIAGES IN CALIFORNIA AS RESULT OF NEW LAW

Regulation Forces Couples to Wait Three Days Before Ceremony

BY BEN G. ELINE
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press
San Francisco—After being in effect for two years California's "six month marriage law," which requires a wait of three full days between the application for and issuance of a marriage license is being found as strong a force as ever in causing couples to go out of the state to acquire wedding bonds.

It was thought that the falling off of marriages in the state, evident shortly after the law became effective, was a temporary swing of the pendulum, which would swing back again after members of the marriageable public became accustomed to having their intentions made public before the event took place.

Such a tendency has been noted in some communities, but generally Oregon, Nevada and other nearby states seem to be getting a considerable portion of the fees legally exacted from couples preparing for matrimony. The marked falling off of marriages in this state which followed enactment of the law continues, judging from this city's latest statistics.

SEE INCREASE
The August figures for San Francisco show an increase of one in marriage certificates recorded over the number for the month a year ago despite a considerable increase in population. Last year the number of certificates recorded in the city was about 750 below figures for 1928, the year preceding passage of the law. In June, the month of wedding bells, this year 716 certificates were recorded in June, 1927 before the law became effect, 861.

Despite the seeming tendency of youthful couples to avoid delay and premature publicity, backers of the "Stop and Listen" legislation are satisfied that it is performing a useful function and its sponsors in the state legislature had little trouble during this year's session in finding support to withstand assaults against it.

Its supporters claim that despite increased marriage business being done in Reno and other nearby centers outside the state the law actually has reduced the number of couples who "marry in haste and repent at leisure," whether such hasty unions are caused by gin or some other motivating force. They claim, too, that in numerous cases youths who were inclined to be too hasty have been balked by the "Hesitation" law.

OPPOSED LAW
Some county officials oppose the law on the grounds that it is unnecessary because they always exercised judgement in preventing minors or persons under the influence of liquor from securing licenses, and on the additional grounds that fast transportation permits couples to get around it by merely going to another state, the answer

Legislative Bodies Take Up Progress Of Aviation

New York —(AP)—With aviation activities of all kinds increasing over the country, 41 states considered aeronautic laws in the 1928-29 sessions of the legislatures.

Thirty-six enacted such laws, according to a survey announced by the Aeronautical chamber of commerce.

Altogether, 250 bills were considered and 106 enacted. Seventy-one were aimed at the regulation or licensing of pilots and aircraft, 84 were general acts and 35 were special acts authorizing the maintenance and establishment of airports.

The report of the survey was made by Prof. Harry J. Freeman of New York University law school, head of the legal and legislative research service of the aeronautical chamber.

"The survey shows that there has been unprecedented legislative activity in this field," Professor Freeman said. "That the legislatures have been prompt to respond to the general interest in controlling aeronautical activity is clearly apparent. Whether these legislative activities have produced the results contemplated is a question for future experience to show."

"That the separate and individual activities of 41 jurisdictions by 41 separate legislative groups did not produce a more chaotic condition is something worthy of remark. In view of the number of jurisdictions, the number of jurisdictions, the general effect of the statutes operating within the respective states has resulted in a uniformity that must be deemed commendable."

"While the major part of the legislation has been with reference to the regulation of aircraft and the establishment of airports, there has been a manifestation of some legislative activity in other fields, more particularly in connection with an attempt to cope with the new situations which have appeared with the phenomenal growth of aviation."

"Already different theories as to the proper method of meeting these problems by the enactment of statutes have appeared and probably are the forerunners of widely divergent legislative policies."

"The proper solution of these problems, which involves the weighing of the interests of the general public on one hand and the encouragement of the development of commercial aviation on the other, required careful investigation."

Professor Freeman pointed out the need of authoritative studies to guide legislation and said the future of aviation legislation must be regarded with apprehension unless an effort is made to direct the individual efforts of the several legislatures.

He recommended the establishment of an authoritative source of aeronautical information in each state.

AMERICAN GIFT AIDS VERDUN'S CATHEDRAL

Verdun, France —(AP)—An anonymous American has given 100,000 francs—about $4,000—to help repair war damages to the Cathedral of Verdun. The letter which accompanied the gift asked the British-op of Verdun not to reveal the American's name.

"Although I am a Protestant," the donor said, "I realize that the Catholic Church is the real mother of Christianity. Without her we would become barbarians in a pagan world."

The terrific bombardments of 1915 reduced the ancient cathedral which is one of these thick stone structures built to last for ages, to a mere shell. Much progress had already been made in restoring the old building, and the American's donation will go further in overcoming damage by German shells.

has been that the responsibility of the official is now made easier and that neighboring states should have similar laws.

Eloquence by airplane has not become a very general practice as yet, but if it does become the thing to do the California law may become much less of a hindrance to speedy matrimony than it is now.

GOHLER JOINS IN WARNING TO KEEP WATCH FOR FIRES

Governor Urges Extreme Care in Forests During Period of Drought

Madison —(AP)—Bringing to the attention of all persons who enter the woods "the perilous situation now existing in northern Wisconsin," Governor Kohler today bid for cooperation of residents and non-resident visitors there in preventing forest fires.

While rains Wednesday night and Thursday party killed some of the fires, he said he was making this announcement in view of possible future dangers.

"We experienced a drought of almost unprecedented duration and as a result water in the rivers and water holes is low and the forests are an unusually inflammable condition," said the executive.

"I strongly urge all citizens except those engaged in fire fighting to keep out of the woods in those neighborhoods which are menaced by which may be, depending on the direction of the wind, be in the path of the fires."

I particularly urge that smokers not throw away lighted cigarettes, cigars, and that campers and others in the woods are carefully to distinguish all camp fires before leaving them. Failure to observe these precautions may result not only in the destruction of vast amounts of property but in loss of human lives.

The country is so parched that light showers will not obviate the danger, which will be a constantly increasing one unless there is a substantial rainfall in the early future."

MR. H. L. CONNOR
"What a wonderful thing to be well again! Konjola ended my indigestion, the bane of my life," said Mr. H. L. Connor, Gilson, Illinois, near Davenport. "Stomach trouble was the cause of suffering day in and day out. A sour condition brought on by indigestion. Food never did me any good. My kidneys started acting up — bringing on severe back pains and a soreness and stiffness in my muscles."

"Konjola — just as I was told it would — went right to the very seat of my troubles. Stomach trouble was relieved almost over night and from the very start my digestion improved. My kidneys are strong and regular; all pain and night risings have vanished. I can now eat and digest foods that I had not dared to touch for years, thanks to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitz Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

CITY GOVERNED BY PRAYERS OF WOMAN MAYOR, PREACHER

Head of Little Louisiana Town Enlists Divine Aid in Problems

Montgomery, La.—When the citizens of this small Louisiana city three years ago voted a woman preacher into office as mayor, there were plenty of residents who wagged their heads, muttered into their beards and sat back to wait for the new chief to fall at the job.

A woman, they said, might conceivably make a good mayor and so might a preacher—but never the two together.

Now, with this same woman preacher-mayor half way through her second term, this little city is practically unanimous in voting her the best chief executive Montgomery has ever had.

HERE'S WHAT SHE'S DONE
Montgomery's mayor is Mrs. Lula Wardlow. Since she took office, she has done the following things:

Wiped out the city's debt and put it on a self-sustaining basis.

Eliminated the rutted, muddy streets and substituted level, well-paved ones.

Done away with the petty vices that are ordinarily the inevitable features of small city life.

Secured for the city electric light, water and gas service.

How has she done it? Her fellow citizens say that it is chiefly because she is an intelligent, capable business woman. But she herself says it is because she prays to the Lord for help in every problem.

PRAYERS BRING LIGHT PLANT
There was, for instance, the matter of the electric light plant.

Montgomery, which has between 800 and 1,000 inhabitants, had never had water, gas and light service.

When Mrs. Wardlow took office, she determined to get these things for her city. But, like her predecessors, she seemed unable to make any headway. Mass meetings were held, civic leaders were interviewed—but nothing happened.

So Mrs. Wardlow went to her home, knelt down and prayed for divine help.

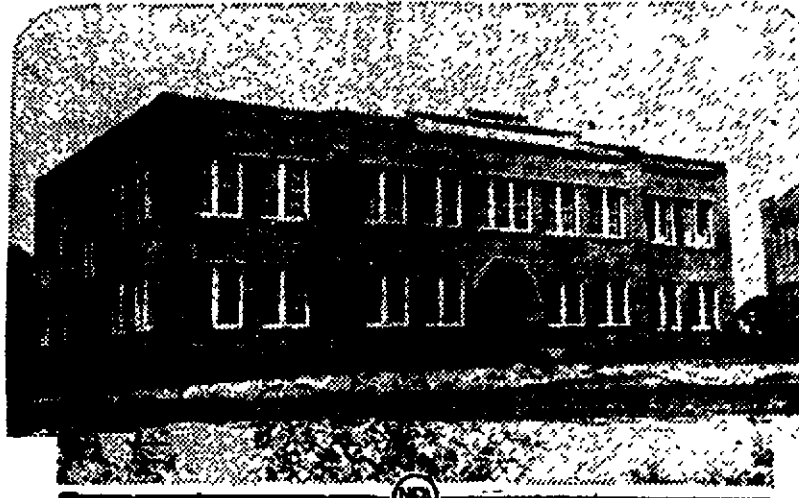

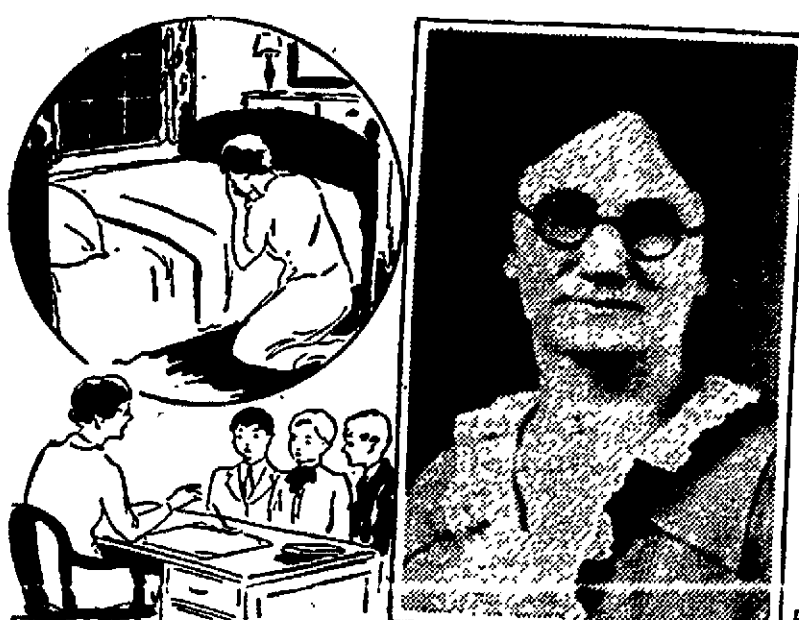

The next day, without any warning whatever, a group of men came to her and said they were going to organize and finance a stock company to provide these services. So, today, Montgomery has a plant that provides it with gas, electric light, water and ice at very low rates.

When she was making her first campaign for mayor—she didn't have to make any campaign the second time—Mrs. Wardlow used to quote a verse of Scripture to the voters:

"Where the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked bear rule, the people mourn."

RULES BY GOSPEL
Thus, after election, she quickly set herself the task of ruling the town as a preacher of the gospel should.

Small towns, as well as big cities, have their sordid side. Mrs. Wardlow wasn't long in tackling Montgomery's.

Presently it was found that the "street shows" and little carnival companies couldn't get permits in Montgomery. The dismal little back-room gambling joints were quietly but speedily suppressed. Sunday baseball and Sunday movies were shut down.

All of this went hand in hand with a business administration that put the town on its feet financially, provided new public works and gave the place an air of prosperity and efficiency. The voters liked it.

Last summer, Mrs. Wardlow filed a long-cherished desire by traveling to Palestine. The mayoralty campaign was on at the time. She made no campaign whatever—and while in the Holy Land, received a cablegram telling her that she had been re-elected.

FACES PROBLEMS LIKE MOTHER
Montgomery has a curfew law. After a certain hour of night, children are supposed to be in their own homes. This law was being ignored; and Mrs. Wardlow, as a mother, felt that this was a problem that should be tackled. She noticed that one particular group of small boys used to roam the streets long after the curfew hour; so one day she had the town marshal round them up and bring them to her office.

There she talked with them earnestly, explaining the importance of law observance to them and inducing each of them to promise obedience in the future. Then, as the chastened lads turned to go, she noticed one was limping. She called the boy back, found he had a splinter in his bare foot—and promptly became the mother instead of the mayor and took the splinter out for him.

Since then Montgomery's curfew law has been obeyed without protest. Mrs. Wardlow began life as the daughter of a planter. As she grew up she spent much time helping him and in this way she got her business experience.

In 1909 Mrs. Wardlow became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Later, feeling a call to the ministry, she went to Chicago to study at the Moody Bible Institute.

AMERICAN MONEY LOANED FOR RAIL ROUTE IN SIBERIA

$5,000,000 Loan Made by U. S. Group to Foreign Financiers

Belgrade — (AP) — Although all railroads in Jugoslavia are state-owned and state-built, a departure has been made by the Pozharevatz District Government, which has, with the permission of the Minister of Finance, concluded a loan direct with an American group for the construction of railways in its area.

The loan amounts to $5,000,000 par value. Interest will be at 7 per cent which is considered moderate in view of financial conditions.

The money will be used for a normal-gauge line from Pozharevatz to the Danube, which will later be joined by a bridge with the Rumanian railway system and will provide a new link between Western Europe, Belgrade and Rumania.

A narrow gauge line will also be built to join Pozharevatz with the narrow gauge system of western Serbia and Bosnia, and this will

LEGAL TO BORROW FROM STATE FOR SCHOOL GYM

Madison — (AP) — The Nekosco town of Port Edwards, high school, seeking a $40,000 loan from state school funds may take money for a gymnasium if the land commission, controlling such funds, sees fit to extend that credit. The attorney general has held that the gymnasium wanted is now considered a part of the modern education equipment and therefore will come within the law allowing the loans for school building. The limit to such a school, however, is $50,000 and with a $10,000 loan already made to the school, the limit would be reached in this case, the opinion warned.

VIKING FESTIVAL TO MARK MILLENNARY OF POLITICAL FREEDOM

Entire World Will Join Hands in Celebration Next Year

Washington—(AP)—Ten centuries ago, with civilized Europe lying in ruins, the intellectual stupor of the dark ages, Iceland established a popular assembly.

Then, its founding went unheeded; now, the entire world will join hands with the homeland of sagas and Viking heroes to commemorate an event which time has revealed as "the most instructive and interesting phenomenon in the history of the middle ages."

At holy Thingvall, site of the establishment in 930 of the parliament, or Althing, the one thousand birthday of the oldest of all existing national assemblies in the civilized world will be celebrated next June.

The spot was selected by one Viking chieftain and is known as "the plain of the parliament" to some and to historians as "the cradle of political freedom of the world and of the self-government of all nations."

Steep walls of basalt lie in the plain, which is three miles broad and six miles long, and the fourth side opens on the greatest lake of Iceland, Thingvallavatn.

In the vast, natural amphitheater, a popular assembly was held each year, all the heathen priests and freeholders being required to attend the sessions, unless exempted.

Europe, when the Althing was established, was in a state of feudalism. Christianity was spreading out its arms to convert the world. America's shores had not felt the foot of the white man.

Yet, for its antiquity and the startling handicap it had on the world, Iceland, as it will be host to the commemorative festival, is a land of the future.

memorators, will still reveal the charm of old Viking days.

The Althing was founded by Ulf, a venerable Viking chieftain and a god, or pagan priest. It stretches continuously in history for 10 centuries, and for nearly 900 years it met every year.

The parliament languished as a popular gathering under Danish rule and in June 8, 1800 it was abolished by royal edict. Under King Christian VIII it was re-established as a consultative body to meet in 1845.

Since becoming an independent kingdom in union with Denmark in 1918, the Icelanders today boast a full-fledged parliamentary system still called by the old name. Althing.

The festival in June will be partly held in the historic surroundings of the old meeting-place and in Reykjavik, the capital city.

President Herbert Hoover has been authorized to accept the invitation tendered the United States to join in the celebration.

Five official representatives will be appointed to participate and a memorial to Leif Eriksen, venturing son of Eric the Red, will be presented.

COLORED BAPTISTS REELECT OFFICERS

Kansas City—(AP)—The Rev. L. K. Williams, Chicago, president, and virtually all the officers of the National Baptist convention, a Negro organization, were reelected here at the annual meeting of the denomination.

Notice is hereby also given that a special term of said court to be held at the court house aforesaid on the fifth Tuesday, being the 21st day of December 1929, at the opening of the court on that day, or as soon thereafter as the same can be, will be heard, examined and adjusted all claims against said deceased then presented to the court.

Provided, That all claims for necessary funeral expenses, expenses for the last sickness of said deceased and for debts having a preference under the laws of the United States, which shall have been represented to said court within sixty days from the date of said order, will be heard, examined and adjusted at a special term of said court to be held at the court house aforesaid, on the fifth Tuesday, being the 21st day of December 1929, on the opening of the court on that day or as soon thereafter as the same can be held.

Dated August 22, 1929.

By order of the Court.

THEODORE BERG, Acting County Judge.

JOSEPH WITMER, Attorney for the Estate.

Infinitesimal Soil Elements Largely Control Plant Life

Ames, Iowa—(AP)—Perhaps 30 elements, some of them little understood even by scientists, exert a tremendous influence on plant life.

They are found in the ash of plants says Dr. A. L. Blake of the plant physiology department at Iowa state college, and among them are aluminum, copper, boron or borax, manganese, zinc and arsenic.

In small quantities these infinitesimal elements often act as stimulants to plant growth, while in larger quantities they prove fatal, just as some drugs affect the animal body.

A bean plant, Dr. Blake says, uses .05 milligram boron each week of the three months it lives. The smallness of this amount may be understood when it is realized that a milligram is .00035 ounce. Even in this small amount, which was determined only after exhaustive tests, boron is necessary to several plants.

Paradoxical as it may seem, the copper that often is used in spray solutions and which is decidedly poisonous in effect aids the growth of lettuce and onions in certain much lands of New York. But when present in soil on which barley is grown, even to the extent of one in 5,000,000 parts, copper slightly retards growth.

Manganese, on the other hand, prods the root and top growth of barley to greater efforts when present in small amounts. When it passes a certain small maximum it retards ripening, works havoc with the cell content, and causes "yellowing."

Some mystery surrounds the part aluminum plays in plant growth. It is found in the ash of many plants but whether it is essential is not determined. In growing hydrangeas, which produce both red and blue flowers, the blue flower can be obtained only when aluminum is in the soil.

Dr. Blake says the presence or absence of these chemical elements, so small they can be detected only by accurate analysis, often cause trouble out of all proportion to their size or apparent importance.

The chemical elements always recognize as necessary to plant growth—phosphorus, potassium, sulphur, calcium, iron and magnesium—are well known and their effects measured. In recent years prospectors in the plant and soil kingdom have been trying to solve the mystery of the smaller elements which may affect plants as much or more than the larger and common elements.

SCIENTIST FINDS HISTORIC TEMPLE

Report Discovery of Three Miles of Life-size Bas Relief

Los Angeles—(AP)—Dr. John C. Hill, director of the department of religion, archaeology and anthropology at the University of Southern California, upon his return here from a summer's study in the south seas announced today he had discovered on the island of Raii, near Jaca, the temple of Boro Boedoe on which there is three miles of life-size bas relief as interesting as any book ever written.

The temple, Dr. Hill said, was buried 1,200 years ago. It covers nine acres of ground, has five levels, or stories, so far uncovered and was the seat of an ancient native religion.

"The bas relief on the lowest level," said Dr. Hill, "depicts the size of the world and the temptations of man. Those above show methods of overcoming evil through the trials of spiritual reincarnation until the prince and finally the god is created in man."

Dr. Hill described the island as 100 miles long and having a population of about 1,000,000. He said the island was a virtual Utopia where the natives lived with little effort a life free from worry and care. The natives verged on physical perfection and lived highly moral lives, he declared.

Mohammadans, said Dr. Hill, had invaded the island many years ago and forced their religion upon the natives, killing the native faith which had created the temple.

Dr. Hill said he would return to the island for six months of research.

ITALY ORDAINS TEAM WORK IN EDUCATION

Rome—(AP)—Harmony between the ecclesiastical and governmental authorities is the keynote of the circular concerning religious instruction in the Italian schools, just issued by Minister of Education Belluzo. This is in virtue of the Concordat between Italy and the Holy See.

The circular provides that at the beginning of every school year the Catholic bishops shall submit to principals the names of priests detailed for religious instruction. Once the principals have approved the list, the priests will present to the school superintendents outlines of the course of religious study.

Each school is to be inspected once a year by a government inspector to find out how the religious instruction is being imparted. In this task he will be accompanied by a clerical inspector and both will preside over the term-end oral examinations.

O. P. DISTURBED AT CITY'S FAILURE TO UPHOLD DRY LAW

Believe Situation at New York Will Be Discussed at Committee Meet

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press
New York — In informed political circles here it is reported that Washington is disturbed over New York City's "run out" on prohibition enforcement, and that the local Republican party situation will be dissected at the Washington meeting of the national committee on Monday, with the possibility of a future shake-up among the New York dispensers of federal patronage.

Traditionally, the judicious dealing of patronage has been a means of enforcing at least the semblance of loyalty to national party program. If enforcement is a part of this program, and President Hoover's addresses and activities have given abundant evidence that it is, the New York Republican bosses either have not discovered it, or else they know it too well to try to object.

Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., chairman of the committee of lawyers to defend indicted victims of the Jones law, is out for the Republican nomination for district attorney, with strong support of silk stockings. Republican leaders, including Charles Evans Hughes, and of staunch Republican newspapers, in New York, law enforcement centers pretty much in the district attorney's office, and the city witnesses the unique spectacle of a Republican candidate for this office, whose sideline activity is rescuing, free of charge, the unfortunate snared by this shiny new republican statute.

Floriella H. Laguardia, candidate for the mayoralty nomination, is rebelling and vociferously wet. While Mr. La Guardia was accepted rather grudgingly by the Republican leaders, many of whom had hoped to see the loyal partisan Congressman Ruth Smith make the race, it was his record as a party maverick, rather than his wet views, which caused this distaste. So far as Republican officialdom was concerned, there was not even the making of an argument in the prohibition issue, and, with the incumbent Democratic administration tossing enforcement back into the federal backyard, it is assured that, whoever wins, Washington will play a lone hand against the run demon.

INTERNAL WRANGLE
The Republican state organization is in the midst of an internal wrangle, which, incidentally but not directly, affects the patronage outlook and possibly the future of the direction of party affairs in this state. The members of the present triumvirate, assigned by Washington to apportion patronage, are divided as to the selection of New York's woman member to the Republican committee to be voted on soon Friday. William M. Hill of Birmingham, an important and powerful up-state leader, is supporting Miss Florence Wardwell, of New York. Charles D. Hill, at present presiding at the head of the patronage counter, wants Mrs. Miriam A. Schindler of Albany and Ogden Mills is supporting Mrs. Pratt.

As the national leaders see it, New York is becoming more and more of an island, in the political sense, too much inclined to content themselves with the federal patronage and let the Democrats take the town.

BUREAU REPLACES CIVIL SERVICE BODY

Garey is Retained as Director of Personnel in New Organization

Madison — (AP) — When Governor Kohler signed the Assembly bill abolishing the state civil service commission and constituting a bureau of personnel in its place, he assured A. E. Garey, secretary of the commission, a position of greater responsibility and somewhat more power.

Garey, under the bill, is retained as director of the bureau of personnel, working with and as a member of a board of three.

The director is appointed by the Governor after civil service examination, and it is provided that the present chief examiner, and secretary of the civil service commission shall become the first director of personnel. The three members of the personnel board are to be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate for six year terms, but it is provided that the present members of the civil service commission shall become the first members of the personnel board, to hold office until their terms as civil service commissioners would have expired.

The civil service law is entirely revised with many administrative changes and numerous public employees not now under civil service are brought under it by the new law.

The bureau of personnel is given authority and funds to make careful studies of salary ranges, methods of recruiting the public service, means of promoting efficiency, etc. Civil service employees are prohibited from making or soliciting political subscriptions, or engaging in political activity during office hours.

Dutch Election Fails To Disturb Coalition

Amsterdam — (AP) — The general elections just concluded in Holland failed to shake the coalition government.

Voting was compulsory for all men and women more than 25 years old. Those who failed to perform this elementary civic duty were subjected to fines.

Radio was used extensively, after the fashion of the American and British general elections campaigns, and seven women were elected to the Lower House.

A remarkable feature about the election was the large number of minority parties, there being 36 in the field as compared with 32 parties four years ago. The total number of electors on the Dutch rolls is just under 4,000,000, and they were offered 644 candidates for the 100 seats in the Second Chamber of the States-General as the parliament is called.

This meant that there was an average of six candidates for each seat. The vote proved clearly that the restoration of a party cabinet was not possible at this time with so many small parties advocating such a diversity of interests. Therefore the condition government continued in office, there having been a change of only two or three seats in Parliament as a result of the election.

An examination of the composition of the Lower House parties and the number of seats they hold, now as compared with the 1925 election, as well as the diversity of interests which appear in their names, will give some idea of the cross-currents of government thought in the country. The composition follows:

Catholics	30	30
Social Democrats	24	24
Anti-Revolutionaries	12	13
Christian Historicals	11	11
Liberals	8	9
Liberal Democrats	7	7
Reformed Protestants	4	3
Communists	2	1
Peasants	1	1
Popular Catholic Party	1	1

Executive power in the Netherlands is vested exclusively in the sovereign, Queen Wilhelmina, while the legislative authority is held jointly by the sovereign and parliament. The upper house consists of 50 members elected by provincial states, the lower house of 100 members elected directly by universal suffrage.

In November, 1925, during the debate on the Foreign Affairs budget the lower house, with the help of the Christian Historicals, rejected the spending money for the Dutch Legation at the Vatican. The Right coalition collapsed and a lengthy ministerial crisis ensued. In March, 1926, after many attempts a coalition cabinet was formed under the leadership of jonkheer Dr. de Greer. It embraced Anti-Revolutionaries, Christian Historicals, Catholics and Liberals. This group has 61 votes in the new parliament, exactly the same as in the old.

But under the system of Proportional Representation existing in Holland, there is no joint policy of the coalition. Instead each party acts independently in propagating its own particular creed.

Another result of Proportional Representation has been the elimination of bye-elections. If a member dies, or resigns, his place is simply taken by the next candidate on the particular political list. It is impossible, however, for a candidate to obtain election on a minority of the total votes cast as is often the case in the United States and Great Britain.

Another peculiar feature of Dutch procedure is that members of the Cabinet need not necessarily be Deputies. In fact most of the ministers are not members of the Chamber.

ANSWER PETITIONS
Obviously the rearrangement of the railroads of the country into groups by the interstate commerce commission would be tantamount to an answer by this body to the various applications that are now before it for the right to secure or hold the control of railroads, such as the Western Maryland, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, Wabash, Lehigh Valley, Detroit, Toledo and Ironton and Buffalo & Susquehanna, all of which are more or less pawns of the game of railroad strategy that has been played for several years without any great advantage so far to any one carrier.

The form of the consolidation set up to be announced by the interstate commerce commission would also suggest at once whether the commission believes in, or is opposed to, the application of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington for the right to bring these three lines into one great system. If the commission has found it advisable to relate them in a northwestern group in its plan it would not very well do otherwise than approve the petition in behalf of these roads which has been before it since last January.

DELAY IS COSTLY
The delay by the commission in reaching a conviction as to what roads should merge with this or that group has been extremely costly to American carriers. One railroad executive recently estimated that $1,000,000,000 had been lost by deferring action on consolidation applications. One factor in this is the great advance in the price of all railroad securities in the last few years, which makes the cost of purchasing control from 50 to 150 per cent higher than it might have been, say, in 1924. Another serious loss to the business of the country comes from the postponement of improvements and extensions, which railroad executives are not willing to enter into so long as they cannot see clearly what their future may be under consolidation plan eventually to go into effect.

SUBURBAN FIREMEN BUY THEIR OWN EQUIPMENT
Chicago — (AP) — If some West Chicagoan hereafter finds it necessary to omit that famous S. O. S., "fireman, save my child," the matter can be taken care of with neatness and dispatch.

West Chicago voted not to buy new fire equipment. In voting down a bond issue to buy fire apparatus, however, they probably did not realize how badly they were hurting the feelings of their volunteer fire department.

Last night the fire alarm sounded. The citizens bounded out to see what they could see. Down the street came their firemen, looking like a million dollars in new uniforms. Behind them rolled two shiny new fire trucks.

"A fellow can't be a fireman without fire trucks," explained Mayor Keppler, who enjoys his fire fighting as much as the best of them. "So we bought 'em out of our own pockets."

To some people this may appear extravagant, but throughout the country, volunteer firemen will understand.

GORROW RETURNS FROM UNIVERSITY EXTENSION MEET

Progress of University of Wisconsin Experimental School Discussed

E. M. Gorrow, field representative for the local district of the University of Wisconsin extension division has returned from a two day conference of field workers at the extension building at Madison.

Mr. Gorrow said the first class of sophomores graduated from the experimental college have shown their ability at gathering by results of the 12-hour achievement tests which students took, at the end of their two year study of Greek and American civilization. The test was given to seniors in 42 Pennsylvania colleges as well as to sophomores in the experimental college.

The average score for experimental college sophomores was 85 points compared to an average among all seniors in Pennsylvania colleges of 59. Ninety-seven of the 119 students who made up the first class of the experimental college two years ago will enter the regular junior class of the university this fall. Professor Malcolm Sharp, secretary of the college has stated that the number of students who can be received by the college is determined by the number of college rooms available in Adams hall, according to Mr. Gorrow. The enrollment for the past year was 193. This fall there will be places for 100 freshmen.

Students who expect to enter the college, should send their records to the registrar of the university, reserving rooms in the mens' dormitory by application to the bursar of the university, and go through the regular channels of registering and orientation week. Freshmen orientation week will be held from Sept. 13 to 24 and during this week all freshmen are required to attend the various conferences.

Seized With Pain, Dreco Relieved Him

I Wouldn't Take $10,000 For The Good Dreco Has Done For Me

"Never have I felt better than I do now since taking a treatment of this new and different medicine, 'Dreco.' My health hasn't been good for years and in spite of the fact that I have been doctoring continuously I could never get any relief. My stomach simply refused to digest my food and my appetite was hardly eating a thing. I also suffered a great deal with rheumatism in my back and limbs. 'Dreco' spells almost threw me at times and my nerves simply went to pieces. Then I started to take Dreco and in just three weeks time I was on the rapid road to recovery."

"My health and strength soon returned and I give all this praise to Dreco, and advise other sufferers to give Dreco a trial. There is nothing better under the sun for ridding the system of its poisons and building up the blood stream." This statement was given the makers of Dreco by Mr. L. E. Stone, R. F. D. 3, Eleva, Wis.

COMMUNISTIC RUSSIANS ARE DETAINED IN CAMP

Mukden, Manchuria — (AP) — Provincial efforts reported today that 1,114 Russians, charged with communistic activities, were being detained in an internment camp north of the Sungari river. Of the prisoners, 71 were women.

Each prisoner was said to receive two pounds of bread daily, together with vegetables, sugar and tea. A hospital is attached to the camp. Friends and relatives may bring clothes and food but conversation and correspondence between them is forbidden.

Each prisoner, it was said, will be tried individually by a chief justice and eight justices, but it will be some time before all can be arranged.

Two Russian chiefs of the telegraphic and telephone service of the Chinese eastern railway have been arrested on charges of conveying military information from Harbin to Khabarovsk.

WATER GROUP DEFERS MEET TO AWAIT REPORT

Delay in submitting a report of a recent federal survey of the flood districts in the Fox and Wolf river valleys has caused the postponement of the annual meeting of the Association for the Relief of High Water, according to an announcement from Alan H. Tripp, president. The meeting was scheduled for Oshkosh late this month but it has been postponed until late in October.

Consideration of the federal report on possible flood relief measures will be the principal business before the annual meeting of the association, Mr. Tripp said.

"I was all run-down and out of spirits before my third baby was born so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me with all my troubles and gave me an appetite where before I didn't eat at all. I did all of my housework up to the day my baby came, as I am a farmer's wife and could not afford help. I feel just dandy now and I will answer any letters and I will tell every one how good this medicine is."—Mrs. Ira Arnold.

"I read an ad. in the newspaper and I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I will recommend this medicine to any woman who is in bad shape like I was. I used to get so tired after a few hours' work that I was even afraid in my own house in the daytime. I didn't care if I lived or died. I have given birth to eight boys and I always feel strong right after, since I have taken the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Maud Meyers.

You've Heard About Oil Burners But You Haven't Heard This

PRACTICALLY all modern oil burners give their owners clean, convenient and economical heat. Summerheat, of course, gives you all the advantages of clean, convenient, quiet and economical heat but because of exclusive engineering principles gives you more.

It is the only burner with which you can still burn paper, garbage, or even coal whenever you like without any change in the installation. Only SUMMERHEAT carries Underwriter's approval of this feature. SUMMERHEAT has self-contained safety controls built into the burner as integral parts. Thus the accuracy of factory adjustment is retained because the only outside control is the room thermostat.

The SUMMERHEAT burner swings on the firing door. Your gases are left intact, there is no bricking up inside your furnace. The flame is introduced where the heat can most effectively be transmitted.

Best of all, every SUMMERHEAT burner carries a five year rehabilitation bond, which means that if you wish your burner will be entirely rebuilt at the factory with all worn or burned parts replaced, at any time within five years from installation upon payment of $25.00. This depreciation will not exceed $5.00 per year on the "ideal" model.

We shall be glad to demonstrate this remarkable burner in your own home—without making any changes in your plant and can be accomplished in a few minutes. We shall welcome an opportunity to tell you more about this remarkable burner including its surprisingly low price.

INVESTIGATION OF RADIO TRUST FULL OF PEP, DYNAMITE

Senate Probe May Turn into Biggest Investigation of All Times

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The biggest senate investigation of all time, if it ever gets going full steam, will be a combined inquiry into the "Power Trust" and the "Radio Trust."

The resources of these so-called trusts are at least $12,000,000,000. Under the Couzens resolution, passed at the last session, the senate Interstate Commerce committee is directed to "investigate the relationship existing between the different kinds of communication service used in interstate and foreign commerce, including radio, telephone, telegraph and all kinds of wireless cable services so used, and transmission of power by wire or wireless."

It is also directed to investigate connections, relationships, ownership and control, stock ownership and trade practices and activities of corporations and persons engaged in communications services.

A LOT CAN HAPPEN

This resolution is pretty far-reaching and some persons think it is added with dynamite. One of the magazines of the electric power industry recently had an editorial asking the question how the industry ever let such a resolution pass. It admitted that as compared with the Couzens resolution, the Walsh public utilities resolution was only summer zephyr. Yet it will be recalled that in the Walsh resolution the senate galleries and allways were crowded with the power people until they finally succeeded in shunting the proposed investigation to the Federal Trade commission. The fact seems to be that a power lobby was caught napping when the Couzens resolution went through late in the session.

At the time the Walsh resolution was introduced, Senator Watson of Indiana was chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, a conservative who seldom interests any trouble. Now the chairman is Senator Jim Couzens of Michigan who is notoriously independent of outside influences. Among other members are such independents as Howell of Nebraska,

ELLA IS ALL WRONG, SAY EVANSTON BOYS

Evansville, Ill. — (AP)—If you ask four certain Evanston high school boys what they think of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's line, "laugh and the world laughs with you," they will tell you it's the baloney.

The lads laughed last night during Brookhart of Iowa, Dill of Washington and Wheeler of Montana.

Just how deeply this committee will probe cannot yet be predicted but if supporters of the Couzens resolution outside the senate have their way it will go very deep indeed.

First there is the power angle. Despite the vigorous investigating tactics of the Federal Trade Commission, there are still plenty of senators who would like to go after the "power trust" in one of their own investigations.

Second, there's the "radio trust." Independent radio concerns organized in the Radio Protective association, are all primed to go after the combination of the Radio Corporation, General Electric, American Telephone & Telegraph, Westinghouse and United Fruit companies on the allegation that they have formed monopolies through illegal use of patents.

"This combination has undertaken to monopolize radio communication, radio broadcasting and radio manufacturing under the pretense of protection by patents," says Senator Dill rather of the radio law, who charges that both the Clayton and Sherman anti-trust laws are being violated.

Oswald F. Schutte, executive secretary of the Radio Protective association, has charged before a senate committee that the five-billion-dollar combination has intimidated the principal radio manufacturers into paying 7 1/2 per cent of their gross sales income to the "trust" and that the intimidating power is based on the power of five billion dollars rather than on patent rights.

He alleges that the Radio Corporation patents are antedated by patents owned by the Navy department, which has been completely negligent of its rights to the great expense of all radio manufacturers outside the "trust"—including the very largest ones—and the radio public which eventually pays the 7 1/2 per cent tax.

A Canadian court has upheld the priority of the navy patents. Contending that the pooling of patents by the combining corporations is illegal, he cites the recent decision of the U. S. District court in Chicago holding illegal the pooling of oil-cracking patents by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, New York and New Jersey, and 49 other oil companies.

a performance at the Varsity theatre. Manager R. E. Knudson had them arrested. He said that even if it had been funny he didn't like the way the boys laughed. It wasn't gentle laughter, in his opinion. More like a quartet arrangement of guffaws.

The boys, Robert Lindstrom, Norton Byam, Jr., Jack Fogarty and Gordon Limberg, said they thought the theatre was a place of amusement.

The court will be asked to decide today who was right—Ella Wheeler Wilcox or R. E. Knudson.

Financial And Market News

MARKET QUICKLY RECOVERS FROM YESTERDAY'S DROP

Public Utilities Set Pace for Comeback from Thursday's Slump

NEW YORK.—(P)—The stock market today recovered from the sharp decline of yesterday's session, with the public utilities set for a comeback from Thursday's slump.

The market was not disturbed by the news that the Federal Reserve bank had raised the discount rate to 6 percent, as the market had anticipated this move.

The market was not disturbed by the news that the Federal Reserve bank had raised the discount rate to 6 percent, as the market had anticipated this move.

FEWER BUYERS AS HOG PRICES DROP

Supply of 20,000 Is Supplemented With 9,000 Holdovers

Chicago.—(P)—Hogs sought lower levels as orders from out of town sources fell off and local buyers received 4,000 hogs on direct billing out of a supply of 20,000 was supplemented by a holdover of 9,000. Eastern buyers were slow to manifest any active interest in the offerings and wanted concessions of 15c or more and sales made within the first rounds were 10c to 15c under Thursday's average and fully 25c under the high time of that day. Early operators secured good to choice lights and light butchers at 11.00@11.15.

Cattle lacked interest. Offerings were confined to less than 2,000 matured animals and a bare 1,000 calves. Packers were without direct receipts and no range cattle were reported. The week's total receipts fell off about 5,000, due to the holdover on Monday, but prices have worked lower. Quality of today's offerings was not such as to attract buyers in a competitive market, but opening quotations were generally steady.

Sheep receipts of 12,000 carried 2-3,000 consigned to packing plants, and the rest of the run was about evenly divided between fat lambs and light westerns suitable only for feed lots. The early market was dull and prices were on a par with the decline of the previous day.

WHEAT PRICE GOES HIGHER ON BASIS OF CROP REPORTS

Revival of Export Interest Also Is Felt in Chicago Sales Pit

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago.—(P)—Revival of export interest and unfavorable crop comments from the southern hemisphere brought forward the wheat market today and the wheat price went higher on basis of crop reports.

The market was not disturbed by the news that the Federal Reserve bank had raised the discount rate to 6 percent, as the market had anticipated this move.

CURB RALLIES AFTER SLUGGISH MORNING

Utilities Show Marked Strength but Industrials Are Quiet

New York.—(P)—Curb exchange stocks displayed marked rally tendencies today, as professional operators brought forward their favorites again on the theory that the flood of selling late yesterday had swept out weak holdings and strengthened the markets position.

Scattered liquidation had to be absorbed, however, as public confidence appeared to have suffered a severe jolt yesterday, and uncertainties in the credit situation, with the mid-month settlements approaching, were not reassuring. The selling generally petered out by midday, however, when the market developed a fairly strong tone. A decline in call money from 9 to 8 per cent in the early afternoon aided the forward movement.

A few of the utilities were markedly buoyant. Standard Power and Light scored more than 15 points to a new high record price, in sympathy with the upturn in Standard Gas and Electric on the "big board," with which Wall Street expects to see Standard Power merged. Northern States was also in urgent demand, rising several points to new high levels. American and Foreign Power warrants were carried sharply high by an upturn in the stock on the stock exchange.

Electric Investors and Electric Bond and Share each mounted a few points, and Associated Gas and Electric, American Superpower, Commonwealth and Southern and United Gas Improvement fluctuated uncertainly.

The industries were generally quiet and irregular. In the motors, Ford of France moved up a little, and Ford of Canada was firm. Checker Cab, however, failed to respond to the application to transfer it to the "big board." In the air issues, Transcontinental was again under moderate pressure. A newcomer was Fairley Aviation, a large British manufacturer. The stock traded around 6. Niles-Bement Bond was in fair demand, but Aluminum Co. tumbled several points in a small turnover.

In the investment company issues, Reliance Management, Prudent, All Third National and Pennrod were strong. The new Blue Ridge stocks, payment for which, totalling $134,000, must be made today, were sluggish. Shenandoah improved on announcement that its net assets as of Sept. 4, after deducting all liabilities, and including its large holdings of Blue Ridge at market value, totaled $250,000. Stocks held by the corporation, exclusive of Blue Ridge, had a market value of $17,000,000 in excess of cost.

Oils were irregular, but Gulf and Indiana were well supported. In the mines, Newmont rallied several points.

Chicago Market Makes Up Losses Incurred in Bear Session Yesterday

Chicago.—(P)—The long-expected easing in call money came today when funds dropped to 7 per cent and stimulated the recovery in Chicago stocks, following yesterday's sharp recession.

Investment trusts were principally active today with National Securities, Cord and Utility and Industrial common and preferred chiefly prominent. National Securities rose up 6 to 50, Cord gained around a point and Utility and Industrial, influenced by further strength in Standard Gas and Electric, in which Utility and Industrial has large holdings, were higher above 49.

Seaboard Utilities and Chicago Investors Preferred, gained fractionally while Insull, Manhattan Dearborn and Chicago Corporation were active within a narrow range.

Auburn was a leader in the automotive group, recovering 20 to 45, while Bendis, Borg and National Standard, the last aided by the declaration of an extra dividend of 25 cents, were slightly higher. Glenner Corp. moved up more than 4 to 136, Grisham was quiet at a point at 59 and United States Radio was up slightly. Goldblum was quiet at 32 3/4, despite reports that directors were contemplating an increase in the dividend to 42 annually, or 8 per cent in stock.

Strength in the oil shares in New York influenced demand for Lion Oil which ran up to 35, after starting down one at 31.

MORE CASH WHEAT THAN YESTERDAY

Trading Basis Is Slightly Higher Than Thursday's Offerings

Chicago.—(P)—The run of cash wheat was a little heavier today with 83 cars inspected but there was a good steady call for the slightly increased offerings and sales followed the late season show of strength in the basic option. The trading basis ran from steady to 1-2c better than on Thursday and sales were reflecting this to a rather full extent. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 503,000 bu, while shipping sales were 11,000 bu, nothing of consequence booked to arrive and no charters reported.

In the sample corn market, arrivals were also a little heavier with 131 cars inspected. Strength in the futures was offset to some extent by a little weakness in the trading basis; the latter being steady at 1-2c lower than yesterday. Sales, however, ran from 1-2c to 1-3c better. Shipping sales were of only moderate size at 52,000 bu, but the country bookings to arrive increased heavily on the upturn, being the heaviest in some time past at 172,000 bu, there were charters for 160,000 bu, made to go to Georgian Bay and deliveries on September contracts totaled 93,000 bu.

The cash oat market showed further strength with sales running from 1-2c higher than the day previous. Trading basis was improved also and was from steady to 1-2c better. Bookings to arrive were relatively heavy at 100,000 bu, while there was further marked improvement in the shipping demand with 205,000 bu, reported as having been worked. September deliveries totaled 11 and charters for 80,000 bu, were made to go to the Bay. Local inspections were a trifle more liberal at 67 cars.

New York.—Reports from London bullion brokers today state that about 150,000 pounds of gold was taken from the Bank of England for shipment to Paris.

Grief Brothers Cooperative Corporation, one of the country's largest barrel manufacturers, is constructing two stove mills, one at Goodman and the other at Balduin, in Mississippi.

The Norfolk & Western railroad is in the market for 2,000 all-steel hopper coal cars of 57 1/2 tons capacity.

Gold amounting to $17,700,000 was imported from Argentina by the Guaranty Trust Company from Jan. 1 to Sept. 5. This represents slightly more than 23 per cent of the total gold imported from that country during that period.

For the eighth consecutive month in this year, the National Cash Register Co., announced today, its August sales exceeded the former record established in August, 1928. America and Canadian sales last month aggregated $2,740,000.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad ordered 24 all-steel suburban roller bearing coaches from the Standard Steel Car company.

FAIR DEMAND FOR WOOL, PRICES REMAIN FIRM

Boston.—(P)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "Demand for wool continues of fair proportions, though somewhat spotty. Prices keep firm. There is less business going done at country points at the moment. The manufacturing position appears very healthy and there is a fair demand for goods continuing, with some improvements reported in woolsens. The new season opened in Australia at Adelaide, Thursday and Friday. The election was poor and prices about on the level predicted, at which level values here look fairly secure. Mohair is steady with demand light. The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1929 to September 5, 1929 inclusive were 126,351,770 pounds against 108,116,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1929 to September 5, 1929 inclusive were 245,910,583 pounds against 269,921,000 pounds for the same period last year."

FRENCH GIRLS GO IN TRAINING FOR WORK AS LADY GOBS

Old Seadogs, However, Are Viewing This Innovation With Alarm

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS
Deauville, France — Who would not go down to the sea in a good ship like the Alcyon?

Like Kipling's liner, this schooner, "she's a lady," and the hardy sailors that "man" her are ladies too. For she is the first training ship for girls that ever put to sea, and the students are learning practical seamanship in order to get genuine masters' licenses.

The Alcyon, which has been anchored off this popular summer resort, has given international visitors another indication of what modern girls can do when free of their old feminine trappings and conventions. Women are already flying airplanes in competition with men, and their sisters soon will be seen pacing the bridges of ocean steamers.

THEY'RE VIEWED WITH ALARM
But what, the sea dogs are asking, is to become of the fine old swashbuckling traditions if imagination is to take up navigation? Imagine a deep-sea chum rendered by a scamp being clouted into submission by a female skipper! Imagine a little sprig of a girl holding a wheel against a full gale!

Maybe they could mend ripped canvas, these women sailors. Probably they'd be all right in the ship's galley. But there's a lot of difference between a belaying pin and a rolling pin.

No, sir, the sea ain't what it used to be.

The Alcyon is a three-masted top-sail schooner of 1600 tons, fitted out as a school ship by Captain Hebert, physical culture professor who before the war directed the Athletic college at Rheims.

"My first idea was that for active and outdoor life for girls, a ship would offer the best possibilities for the development of the physique," he said. "My girl pupils liked the life so well that they wanted to follow it up and train with the master's ticket at a goal. I therefore converted the Alcyon into a typical training ship. Today the duties of seamanship are rigorously taught by experienced sailors and eagerly assimilated by the girl students."

No girls under 16 are admitted for training. They must be of good family and have passed a medical examination to prove that their duties will not be too arduous for them. The school is international and pupils other than those of French birth are eligible for admission.

IT'S A MAN'S JOB
The girls are called upon to do all the work of men who train in seamanship. They swab decks as well as learn navigation. The boat is divided into three parts. In the poop are the quarters arranged for Captain and Mrs. Hebert. The fore-cabin is reserved for the crew, and the entire midship has been adapted for the use of the pupils. Two-berth cabins line each side of the saloon, but there are regulation hammocks for those who prefer them and wish thoroughly to live the sailor's life.

The captain's table is served from the ship's galley, for Captain Hebert probably thinks that he cannot take too many chances on the cooking of his ultra-modern girl students. The students' galley, however, is entirely managed by themselves. When they are in port they do all the marketing.

The Alcyon sets sail on a voyage twice a month. Before leaving, the girls are required to estimate what they will need from the ship's store and ration themselves accordingly. These trips take them to some of the English ports or for a short cruise in the Atlantic, and while at sea the pupils are required to do the duties of seamen. They have a boat's crew and must obey her orders. They furl and unfurl sail, take soundings, make their position on the chart, lay the course and keep a log and take turns at night watches.

THEY'RE EXPERT SEAMEN
It's great fun, they all say. Many have become expert at climbing rigging and are not afraid to stand on the top-gallant yards while the ship is under sail. The decks must be kept clean and paint be kept fresh.

The girls wear regulation sailor garb of white duck trousers, blouses, knitted Breton caps and move about deck in bare feet. But for shore leave they adopt a smart yachting dress of white knitted shirt with blouse and navy reefer jacket.

They'll Be Full Fledged Skippers Soon

MAP WINTER PROGRAM FOR MISSION CLUB

The winter program was mapped out at a meeting of the Women's Missionary society of First Reformed church Thursday evening at the parsonage. It was decided to have two extra meetings during the winter one to come in October and one in January, and to discontinue meetings in July and August as was done this year. Plans were made for the annual mission day to be held Sept. 22. The luncheon committee is composed of Mrs. George Leemhuis and Mrs. John Pitt. Speakers at the luncheon will be Prof. J. Priedly of the mission house at Plymouth, and the Rev. A. Pluppert, Sheboygan. The study books which will be used during the year were discussed by the members. They are From Jerusalem to Jerusalem and Crowded Ways.

YOUTH IS DETERMINED TO KEEP PET CANINE

Milwaukee — (P) — Buddy Minahan may have to part with his dog after all.

Buddy, son of Hugh Minahan, deputy attorney-general, was given a wire-haired terrier by his father a year ago. This summer, the Minahans took a house in Milwaukee's east side, signing a lease which prescribed "no dogs." But the dog was kept, until Wednesday, when the landlord insisted he must go.

Mrs. Minahan communicated the edict to her son, 13. He took it silently. Then he disappeared, with the dog, "Snoop." He was gone all Wednesday night and his whereabouts were a mystery until Thursday midnight. He started for Green Bay, where his father is a counsel in a court case, spent the night at a farmhouse enroute, and hitch-hiked the rest of the distance Thursday.

Mrs. Minahan held a conference with her husband and after it was over said that it was likely buddy will be enrolled at St. Norbert's college near Green Bay. That means he will keep his dog.

morning when classes are resumed, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and club leader. Arthur Roemer, president of the club will be in charge of the sale.

PIONEERS MEET TO MAKE ANNUAL PLANS

Members of the David Crockett Pioneer club at the Y. M. C. A. met under the direction of John Slolander, club leader, in the association building Thursday evening. Plans for the coming year were discussed. Other Pioneer groups will resume meetings next week, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the association.

Wisconsin Weather
Mostly fair tonight and Saturday; cooler tonight, with probably frost in lowlands, except in southeast portion.

General Weather
A trough of low pressure extending from the St. Lawrence valley to New Mexico has brought showers to the lower lakes, the middle and lower Mississippi valley, most of the western plains state and the Atlantic coast states. A "high" of considerable strength is moving in over Montana, bringing fair weather to the upper lakes, upper Missouri valley and the north Pacific coast. It is much cooler this morning in the lower lakes, upper Mississippi valley and along the north Atlantic coast. Frost was reported from North Dakota and Montana. Fair and cooler is expected in this district tonight, with probably light frosts in the lowlands, followed by fair and continued cool Saturday.

A drink that cheers and refreshes
Delicious lemonade is so quickly and easily made

FEW drinks are so refreshing, so cooling and so healthful on warm summer days and evenings as lemonade made correctly. Lemonade is loved by children and adults, and it may be made in a jiffy.

We went to the famous California Fruit Growers for the following perfect recipe:
Juice from 6 lemons; 3/4 to 1 cup sugar; 6 cups cold water. Put sugar in pitcher, add ice water, stir until sugar is dissolved; add lemon juice and serve immediately.

Sugar is nature's supreme flavor. It makes fruits, vegetables and other healthful foods delightful to the taste. Authorities interested in having everyone eat a proper diet point out how tasteless many foods would be without the judicious use of sugar as a flavor.

A sprinkling of sugar on cereals makes these beneficial foods enjoyable to children and adults. Sugar makes it possible for us to eat and enjoy lemon juice and pineapple, and all kinds of stewed fruits.

Two groups of women cooking experts recently rediscovered an old secret. A dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking makes these vitamin and mineral foods so good to the taste that everyone can now enjoy them. A dash of sugar does not make the vegetables taste sweet. On the contrary, it develops all their natural vegetable flavors otherwise somehow submerged in the cooking. Try a little sugar in cooking vegetables and just notice the difference. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

WISCONSIN C. OF C. ISSUES 1ST NUMBER OF NEW MAGAZINE

Publication Contains Articles of Interest to Wisconsin People

Copies of "On Wisconsin," the official magazine of the newly organized Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, have been received in Appleton. The first number was issued Sept. 1 and contains a great deal of information about the state.

The mission of the magazine, as well as that of the State Chamber, is to promote Wisconsin and its varied activities all over the world. The magazine teems with facts and figures every citizen of the state ought to know, and which will enhance the fame of the state wherever they are known.

Among the articles, all profusely illustrated, which appear in the initial number of "On Wisconsin" are the following: A story of the organization and objects of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce, by E. H. Krueger, general secretary; official statistics of agriculture and manufacturing in Wisconsin, carefully prepared from official records; a story of the A. O. Smith Corporation, which is one of the world's marvels in industry; an article showing what the large system on the Mississippi means to shippers of Wisconsin, by A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue for the Eastern district of Wisconsin; aviation in Wisconsin, with maps showing state landing fields and trans-continental contacts, by Frank A.

Maughn, one of the state's outstanding engineers; how the state is insuring a supply in its waters of fish and better fish, by D. H. Kipp, educational director of the Conservation commission; a story of Wisconsin as a playground for tourists, presenting many facts and figures of real interest; an article by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, on "Business and Politics"; statistics showing Wisconsin's rank among states in agriculture and industry with a resume of reasons for its progress; business conditions in America and in other nations, a monthly feature; new incorporations, and an impressive array of carefully selected miscellany.

The cover of "On Wisconsin" in two colors, presents a relief map of the state woven into an unique presentation of agriculture, industry and commerce.

In addition to its state-wide circulation, "On Wisconsin" goes to every Chamber of Commerce in the World and to every U. S. consular agent, so that the state's activities will benefit from world-wide exploitation.

The publisher of "On Wisconsin" is Mort L. Stevens, for twenty years publisher of the "Mid-Western Banker," and a graduate of the daily news paper field.

The editor is Oliver E. Remy, also well known in daily newspaper work for many years, and as secretary of the Wisconsin State Fair from 1915 to 1924, inclusive.

Half-Starved Soldiers In China Raiding Ships

Shanghai, China — (P) — The old tale about beggars not being choosers went by the boards recently when a mob of half-starved Chinese soldiers crowded the decks of the Kiangteh, a Yangtze river steamer, invaded the cook's galley, ate everything in sight, and then threw the cook overboard because the "chow" hadn't suited them.

This was only one of the many similar incidents that have occurred on the Yangtze in recent months. A week seldom passes but what the disbanded and starving soldiers of either the government or some rebel general's forces their way aboard a river steamer, man-handle the passengers and devour all the food they can lay their hands on.

The Kiangteh, latest victim of such an episode, was owned and operated by Chinese. It was boarded at Nanking on its way to Hankow by 100 disbanded soldiers. They refused to pay for their passage and demanded food.

They made a rush for the galley, gobbled up all that the cook set out in front of them and then said the food was not good enough. As balm for their wounded dignities and damaged stomachs they said payment of $500 would be "just about right."

Their demands for money were laughed at and in the scene that followed, the cook was callously thrown overboard. The chief officer attempted to throw over a line but the soldiers held him.

After watching the cook drown, the soldiers gave the chief officer a severe thrashing for daring to delay the ship. They also beat the captain because he sounded the whistle. On arrival at Kiukiang the soldiers quit the boat.

Two British steamers, the Poyang and the Siangwo, met with similar trouble a short time previous to the Kiangteh episode. The Poyang was boarded by 1,300 soldiers at a place called Shasi. They compelled the captain to take them to Hankow. To add insult to injury, a detachment of government troops farther down the river opened fire on the rebels, which event transformed a peaceful British river steamer into a rebel troopship.

The Siangwo ran into trouble at Shasi. Two hundred soldiers boarded the vessel and the captain was forced to take them to Hankow. They demanded the best of everything in the way of food and the captain left them have their own way.

GARDINER GOVERNMENT LOSES IN CLOSE VOTE

Regina, Sask. — (P) — By a vote of 34 to 27, the Gardiner government was defeated here early this morning, and the administration was voted out of office on a non-confidence amendment moved by Dr. J. T. Anderson, cooperative leader in the provincial legislature.

After a continuous reign of 24 years, a liberal government, steps out of office.

Twenty-three conservatives with their allied groups of five progressives and six independents, solidly lined up for the amendment. Liberals alone voted against, with the exception of D. A. Hall, Cumberland, who was not present.

ENGLISH SEE NEW TARIFF REGULATION AIDING INDUSTRY

Against Competing Foreign Articles

BY BATES RANEY
Associated Press Staff Writer London—(AP)—With both major political parties, the Conservatives and Laborites, committed to "safeguarding of industry" in varying degrees, leaders of big business in Great Britain are counting upon aid from further tariff barriers in planning their future courses.

The Liberals are sticking to the traditional free trade policy of the United Kingdom, but only a surprising landslide would give that party a stronger position that that of possibly holding the balance of power in the new parliament.

The economic side of the campaign has in some respects been reminiscent of the days when "the full dinner pail" was a vital political slogan in the United States, but without mention of "protection" in speeches and platforms. The English, while showing symptoms of abandoning free trade, still shy at using the American word, preferring the euphemism, "safeguarding."
HAVE DIRECT U. S. INTEREST

A more direct United States interest in this phase of Great Britain's policy can be found in the probable effect of higher tariff barriers upon the diminishing American trade balance.

In 1925 the United States sold
$1,023,856,369 worth of merchandise to Great Britain and bought $412,- 704,553 worth, leaving a trade balance of $611,151,834 in favor of the United States. The Empire Marketing Board then began to spend millions in strengthening the "Buy British Goods" movement, and it is now considered almost unpatriotic to buy foreign goods of any description.

By 1926 the sales of American goods in the United Kingdom had dropped to $972,334,340. At the same time American imports from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales were down to $383,189,526, reducing the trade balance to $589,- 195,304, a loss of $32,556,500.

Economic experts predict that erection of tariff walls around the United Kingdom will accelerate the diminution of this balance.

NO TARIFF FOR REVENUE
In this respect it is interesting to note that neither the Conservatives nor the Laborites have any thought of tariff for revenue. All that is asked in any case is an adequate safeguarding against foreign goods which compete with British industries in the home market.

This question has already caused considerable trouble for Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin. He lost one election because he went to the country in favor of safeguarding when the people were not prepared for it. The first Labor government, then backing Free Trade, went into power at that time.

Mr. Baldwin's stand this year in regard to safeguarding almost disrupted his cabinet; but, on the surface at least, the ministers have reached an agreement as to limited safeguarding but only for those industries which can prove before a government tribunal that they need it vitally.

LABOR POSITION SAME
The Labor position is similar.
This is a decided change in sentiment for that party. The working people have always thought a high tariff would result in increased living costs and their one bitter experiment on a wheat tariff, which raised the price of bread to about 25 cents a loaf, still rankles.

It is not believed, however, that any attempt will be made to restrict the flow of food stuffs. Canadian and Australian canned goods and certain other Empire grown foods get the benefit of a small preferential tariff, but California, Oregon and other American states are still able to sell the United Kingdom millions of dollars worth of fruits and canned goods.

Some of the American products which are likely to feel the weight of an extensive scheme include safety razors, talking machines, films, cameras, farm implements, automobiles and iron and steel.

EASTERN STATES LAG IN AIR DEVELOPMENT

Detroit—(AP)—Cities of the middle west, southern and Pacific coast are sending ground for self-concentration at the expense of New York and the eastern seaboard in the latest government aviation statistics.

Out of 65 air lines in the United States operating on a daily or six-time-weekly schedule, only four touch New York City. These are the Colonial line to Boston, the National Air Transport service to and from Chicago and the Pitcairn service from Atlanta and Washington to New York.

Chicago already is the center of a spider web of air lines reaching west to the Pacific, east to the Atlantic, south to the Gulf and north to the twin cities. Detroit has been linked with Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo. Other cities of the Great Lakes region are similarly well served with air transportation.

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and other leading coast cities are junction points for a rapidly developing system of air lines. Texas and the Mississippi valley are two other areas that have taken up flying with little hesitation.

In general the newer communities have appeared to show less backwardness about trying the new form of transportation than the regions included in the thirteen original colonies.

CABBAGE WORMS ARE CAUSING TROUBLE IN COUNTY FIELDS

County Agent Suggests Several means of Fighting Pests

Considerable trouble is being experienced by Outagamie-co farmers with cabbage worms, according to Gus Sell, county agent, who has prepared a bulletin in which he lists several methods of fighting the pests.

Cabbage plants should be sprayed as soon as the worms appear, according to Mr. Sell, and the spray should be repeated whenever necessary to cover new leaf growth and to poison worms from later hatchings.

In liquid sprays some kind of "tieker" should be used. Common yellow laundry soap will serve this purpose. The spray should be applied in the form of a mist so that the foliage will be thoroughly soaked with poison. The spray should be kept well stirred and mixed so that the heavier particles will not settle at the bottom of the tank. Spray materials should be strained before they are placed in a tank to avoid clogging of nozzles.

Three kinds of poison prove effective in this treatment, according to Mr. Sell. They are calcium arsenate, lead arsenate and paris green. The first two however are cheaper and stick better. In addition they show up white so that the farmer can readily see what has been sprayed.

Poisons may be applied either as liquids or dust but in Wisconsin the liquid spray seems best although the dust spray also has been proven effective.

As a liquid spray calcium arsenate and lead arsenate are used at the rate of one pound of powder or two pounds of paste to 50 gallons of water, in which two to four pounds of common yellow laundry soap have been dissolved. In smaller quantities one-half ounce of powder may be used to each gallon of water plus an inch cube of soap.

The spray should be applied as a fine mist. For garden plots a small hand sprayer, costing from 75 cents to $1.50, is sufficient. For an acre or two one should use some type of knapsack or compressed air sprayer, which cost from $6. to $10. For large fields it is best to use a power sprayer.

As a dust spray the poisons may be diluted with from five to 10 parts, by weight, of air-stacked lime. This mixture should be dusted on the plants early in the morning while they are still wet with dew, using a cheesecloth sack or can with holes punched in the bottom for small plots or a hand duster for larger acreage.

The consumer is in no danger of being poisoned from eating cabbage sprayed with poisons if ordinary care is used in preparing it. Tests carried on at this station in 1917 show that there was no trace of poison on heads from which the outer layer of leaves had been removed, even when sprayed until a week before harvest. The cabbage plant grows from the inside out. The loose leaves are all removed when the cabbage is gathered and another layer of leaves is removed in preparing for cooking, so that there should be no leaves present which have poison on them. It is important to gather and destroy or plow under all cabbage stumps as soon as possible after the crop has been harvested so that any worms still present cannot complete their development and damage the crop of the next season.

WISCONSIN LEADS IN CODE FOR SAFETY

Badgers Take Prominent Part in Putting Federal Code in Practice

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—Wisconsin is a leading state in the application of the Bureau of Standards model code for safety in electrical service, declared Dr. R. G. Lloyd, chief of the bureau's section on safety standards on his departure for conference with state officials on the Pacific coast.

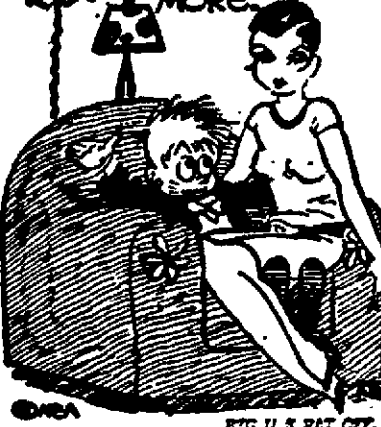

Dr. Lloyd is chairman of a national committee dealing with the subject of protection against lightning and is chairman of a committee of the National Fire Protection association dealing with the same subject.

On his recent trip to the west, Dr. Lloyd will attend conventions in Vancouver, B. C. and San Francisco, Calif., held by local sections of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors, talking at these conventions on electrical wiring and the practice of grounding electrical circuits and equipment for protective purposes. He will also discuss at each convention the work of the Bureau of Standards which is of interest to the electrical industry.

Standards for protection against damages to persons and property by electricity have been in use in several states, applied by the state public utility commissions and state labor departments. Wisconsin, Oregon, California, and Nevada have been prominent in putting the model safety codes into use within their jurisdictions, Dr. Lloyd said.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID
London.—The construction of a $5,000,000 paper mill here by two newspapers will relieve the unemployment situation considerably, it is thought. The erection of the mill will commence immediately and it is thought that before long this factory, one of the largest when built, will be producing 60,000 tons of newspaper a year.

Kaukauna News

Ancient Water Trough Now Is Traffic Guide

Kaukauna—Although its demand as a restaurant for horses passed with the arrival of the automobile, the old horse-watering fountain at the intersection of Crooks-ave and Second and Dodge-sts serves a new and useful purpose. It is now a traffic sign in the street, making it wide at that point, makes the traffic keep to the right side and prevents traffic jams and accidents. The trough is the only one left in the city and will remain because of its new use. There were troughs on the corner of Depot and Taylor-sts, Wisconsin-ave and Desnoyer-st and Lave and Tobacco-sts, but they were torn down when they were no longer used by horses and became an obstacle for traffic. The fountain is made of concrete and was the one of the busiest places on the south side. Hundreds of farmers stopped there to water their horses, but now they come to the city in cars. Only one or two merchants still use horses for delivering and hardly ever use the trough for them.

At one time a bubble was in the trough for thirty persons but it has long since been removed for the more sanitary purposes of the street corner. Sometimes the pigeons from the granary near by fly to the fountain for a drink and now and then a stray dog can be seen taking a drink there, but most of the time it stands by itself in the center of the street forcing the cars in line and preventing traffic jams.

40 WORK OUT WITH GRIDIRON SQUAD AS SEASON OPENS

Coach Little Says Number of New Men Are Showing Promise

Kaukauna—More than 40 boys are reporting daily for football practice for the Kaukauna high school squad at the ball park. The squad is slightly larger than last year but more of the material is inexperienced.

Every afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 the boys will be at the ball park practicing blocking, tackling and other details of sports. The first hard practice was held Thursday afternoon. The boys were given a half hour at tackling and blocking the dummy.

There are three weeks before the opening of one of the hardest seasons ever scheduled for the team. The season opens on Saturday, Sept. 28 with a game at Antigo, a new grid. The team will play Antigo, Oconto, Sturgeon Bay, Neenah, Two Rivers, West Green Bay and Wausau.

Coach Paul Little stated that some of the new men are beginning to show well. He hinted at a possible practice game with the alumni before the opening of the regular schedule. Only a skeleton of last year's team is left around which to build a team this year. Lettermen of last year practicing with the squad are Captain Robert Grogan, Schwendemann, Bay, Vaneevohov, and VanLieshout.

BOWLING SEASON TO GET UNDERWAY SOON

Kaukauna—The bowling season will open next week, according to Frank Hilgenberg, proprietor of the Kaukauna bowling alleys. It is expected that the Business Men's league, American Legion league, City Bowling league, Ladies' Bowling league and the Knights of Columbus league will take the alleys. The Electric City team also will be organized this year to enter in the Fox River Valley league.

BACK FROM VACATION

Kaukauna—Miss M. Kelly, assistant librarian, has resumed her work after a two weeks vacation. She is in charge of the library at present as Miss Katherine Hornbrook, librarian, is on a vacation for a week. She will return next Monday.

REPORTS ACCIDENT

Kaukauna—Herman Jansen reported to police here that he was the owner and driver of the car that broke off the end lamp post on the Wisconsin-ave bridge Wednesday night. He was turning the corner and failed to turn quick enough when the accident happened.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Havana—All public dance halls, some 50 in number, have been closed by the authorities. Women's clubs complained of them as dens of iniquity.

New York—The stock exchange is to have a gallery of some 75,000 photographs, pictures of every employee of its 1,575 members from senior clerk to office boy. The gallery will be accessible to all members.

Philadelphia—The supply of sun-kissed fair Helens who play marvelous tennis seems inexhaustible. There are Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs. Now comes Helen Marlowe, also of California—Hollywood in fact—to create a sensation in the girls' national tourney.

FEDERAL FORECAST WILL SET PRICE ON 1929 COTTON CROP

Size of Estimate Depends on Interpretation of Unfavorable Weather

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—Prices which will be paid the planters for their 1929 cotton crop will be determined to a large extent by the government forecast to be issued Sept. 9. The size of the estimate will depend upon the interpretation which the government crop reporting board places on the effect of the unfavorable weather which existed in the cotton belt throughout the past month.

The importance of the report is heightened since it will come at a time when picking and marketing are in full swing.

Spinners as well as speculators are now engaged in a speculative movement based on anticipation of a considerable reduction in the forecast of production, and it is the volume of supplies rather than the inequality of demand which causes price changes in the cotton trade.

The forthcoming forecast may appear as the ideal of possible supply and thus cause material price changes. Private investigators have reported unusually heavy deterioration in the crop over an area covering two-thirds of the cotton belt. These reports have been based on conditions obtaining up to last Monday. None can tell what the conditions between now and next Monday will bring about in the way of weather and this may influence the official estimate.

Predictions of the private bureaus range between 14,970,000 and 15,150,000 bales. The last official estimate of the crop was 15,543,000 bales of 500 pounds each.

It is realized that uncertainty attends both the official and unofficial estimates at this time, since weather is the ruling factor up to Oct. 1. It is equally uncertain what formula or par the government experts will use in interpreting production. The average deterioration in the crop in former years, when the weevil was prevalent has amounted to 13.9 per cent. Private estimators feel that if the reports of deterioration in the crop are approximately true, this percentage should be at least equal to that exceeded.

The most eminent private authority among the cotton statisticians expressed the belief today that the Texas crop was in a bad way and that western Oklahoma was not much better. He doubted if Texas would make 4,000,000 bales. Drought has been prevalent throughout that state and the three smallest crops ever recorded were due to lack of sufficient rainfall. In 1925 the Texas crop was reduced 40 per cent by deficient rainfall, while the highest toll ever attributed to the boll weevil was 34 per cent. This year the state has both drought and weevil in some sections. It is known definitely that the prospect in Oklahoma, the Mississippi valley states and in Alabama has shrunk in the last month. In other districts prospects are for a fair crop.

With these facts taken into consideration it appears to be the general consensus of the unofficial investigators that an estimate under or not exceeding 15,000,000 bales would be warranted.

EUROPEANS QUITTING AUSTRALIA; NO WORK

Sydney (AP)—One of the effects of the unusual employment depression in Australia is an exodus from the Commonwealth of Southern Europeans.

Italians are leaving in such large numbers that many have been unable to book direct passages by the steamers that ply between Australia and Italy, and have taken passage over English lines that call at Malta, intending to disembark there and pay fare on another vessel from Malta to Italy.

The Greek consul, Mr. Maniachi, said he had never known industrial conditions to be so bad for his countrymen. Never before had there been so many Greeks returning to Greece, where, under present conditions, they could live better than in Australia.

Traveling Coats Are About the Only Item to Be Changed

BY AILEEN LAMONT

Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press
New York—Millions of youngsters are now preparing either "to go to college" or to go back to college.

Their parents are preparing to send them back and consequently there is an immediate emphasis on what the young idea will wear. In most cases she will wear pretty nearly what her mother and grandmother wear but the traveling coats perhaps will carry the most youthful impress. The flare to the skirts of these garments is distinctive while fur trimmings are absent; at least for the moment. Perhaps later, the ubiquitous coon skin will return to favor.

Fabrications today have a terrible series of problems. They must have fabrics which look like what they are and fabrics which look like what they are not. In the latter category are the new silk fabrics which have the appearance of a tweed and the designs of tweed but which also have the soft feel of chambray and the softness of silk. These are using for the skirt and jacket combinations which are worn over crepe de chine blouses.

"The Old Irish expression 'take your foot in your hand' is being fully followed out by the fashion experts. For there is a distinct affinity today between the materials and designs and decorations of the shoe and the handbag. For example shoe and bags of reptile leather mat in such shades as green, the blue of blue serge or tobacco brown. Even with evening dress the bags ornamented

NEW LONDON MAN'S HERD TOPS TOWN MILK TEST GROUP

Henry Stichman's Cows Produce Average of 38.1 Pounds of Butterfat

Henry Stichman, New London, whose herd averaged 38.1 pounds of butterfat during August, topped the Ellington Outagamie Herd Improvement association according to the monthly report of M. A. Handschke, official tester.

A grade Holstein, Dolly, owned by Ed Roessler, Dale, topped the animals with a production of 1504 pounds of milk, with an average test of 4 per cent and a record of 60.2 pounds of butterfat.

Five cows in the association were sold for beef and one for dairy purposes. Seven herds in the association with seed pearls are accompanied by allipers also ornamented with those gems.

DEAN RAFFS CATHEDRALS

London—Dr. J. G. Simpson, Dean of Petersburg, has taken a rap at cathedral. "Cathedrals," he says, "if they do not set out to win a cheap success, may relapse all too easily into becoming, as indeed they have been described, almshouses for elderly clergymen of indefinite opinions, content to maintain a traditional cycle of services."

ATWATER KENT SCREEN-GRID RADIO

Combined with the new... Kiel "GOLDEN VOICED" Table

The newest in radio can always be acquainted with Atwater Kent. For example this leading manufacturer recently announced the "Golden Voiced" table which is surely the most modern thing offered the public since the introduction of a new radio principal—Screen-Grid by Atwater Kent. You must see and hear this unique receiving set to appreciate its extraordinary performance and utility. It looks like a table—it is a table—and a radio too.

Features

1. Built with the exacting precision of the finest musical instruments.
2. Scientifically designed for acoustic properties with dynamic speaker—permits full, rounded, undistorted tone reproduction.
3. Neat installation—wiring for aerial, ground and power connections concealed in table legs—also wired for lamp connection.
4. All sides of table are beautifully ornamented and finished.
5. A utility table—saves buying an extra piece of furniture—size of table top, 24 1/2 x 36 x 31 inches high.

In every market, HARTMAN men may be found, studying styles, scrutinizing manufacturing methods, working out with blue prints and modern equipment new ways to build quality and beauty into furniture and at the same time save money.

No smaller organization can afford to do this. It takes men who have devoted their lives to furniture business. The world is their workshop, where they build and plan to serve the Greatest Nation on Earth.

FURNISHERS OF MORE THAN A MILLION SUCCESSFUL HOMES

All over America, you will find the influence of HARTMAN'S. New comfort and beauty have been introduced to homes where strict economy had prevented consideration of it before.

HARTMAN'S looks back with pride upon the achievement of having already furnished more than a million successful homes.

Every day old customers bring their friends to HARTMAN'S and take as much pleasure in helping them select the home of their dreams as they knew in choosing things for themselves.

EVERYTHING FOR THE HOME A COMPLETE SERVICE

At HARTMAN'S, you may purchase Everything for the Home, everything you need to completely furnish your home or apartment.

No arduous shopping. No necessity to buy at a dozen stores. No need to pay countless small bills. At HARTMAN'S you buy and budget your home complete, paying for it in a month, a year or more—whichever may best suit your convenience.

Not only furniture, but rugs, floor coverings, draperies, stoves, ranges, blankets, bedding, etc.—everything to make your home a source of pride, comfort, happiness and satisfaction.

UP-TO-DATE STYLES

ALWAYS IN GOOD TASTE

At HARTMAN'S—the new styles first. Not the freakish bizarre fads that quickly pass. But the new things that are in good taste, adaptable and right for modern homes.

HARTMAN'S volume of sales, running into many millions of dollars annually, insures a constant supply of new merchandise in all HARTMAN stores at all times.

And you may be sure that these new things, in keeping with HARTMAN'S everyday low price policy, are always on sale at the lowest possible prices.

COURTEOUS, HELPFUL AND EFFICIENT SERVICE

HARTMAN'S Salesmen are carefully picked men, men with wide experience plus the rigid training they receive before they are allowed to serve HARTMAN customers.

You will find them courteous, considerate and always willing to be helpful. They are here not only to help you select Furnishings for your Home. Their purpose is also to earn your goodwill and confidence and friendship.

Not only in selling, but also in rendering every service possible after your purchase is made, you will find HARTMAN'S code of courtesy prevails. Courtesy, Helpfulness, Efficiency are the keynotes of the most satisfactory Home Furnishing Service in the world!

LOWEST PRICES TODAY AND EVERY DAY

HARTMAN'S everyday low prices are plainly marked on every article in every HARTMAN store.

You may be sure that the price you pay for anything you buy at HARTMAN'S is the lowest possible price, consistent with the quality of the merchandise.

Because of HARTMAN'S tremendous buying and selling power, HARTMAN'S prices are usually lower than any other retail store can afford to mark the same merchandise.

Compare HARTMAN'S low prices, today and every day. Compare HARTMAN'S Quality and Style. You, too, will become a Satisfied Customer of HARTMAN'S.

CREDIT FACILITIES TO SUIT YOUR CONVENIENCE

HARTMAN'S great financial strength makes it possible to extend to an unlimited number of customers the kind of credit they require.

Everything for the home is marked on a cash basis at HARTMAN'S. Convenient terms are easily arranged to permit purchasing out of income on a HARTMAN Extended Payment Charge Account.

A small finance charge is added, covering just the period of time to meet your requirements, whether it is two years or less. If your account is paid in 90 days, this charge is refunded.

Old Ben greeted my lady Helen effusively, obviously fascinated by her graceful movement that accentuated her marked beauty.

"Will 'ee be a waitin' your Witch, my leddy?"

"No, no, Ben, I'm here to escape the company, and gossip with thee awhile."

"Why, then—a cheer, my leddy. . . . Jarge, Jarge lad, fetch my elbercheer."

George obeyed, and instantly vanished.

"And now," said my lady, sinking into the elbow chair, "sit and talk to me, Ben; tell me all the news."

"Ar, ma'm! But first I'll tell 'ee 'bout Maister Olderoff. You've heard of 'e, my leddy, the folne, smart constabulo from Lonnun as thinks 'iself so sharp as a packet o' needles. This 'ere very mornin', they finds this Maister Olderoff . . . fast 'e the stocks . . . tied up in a sack, an' 'e'd been in they stocks . . . all night long!"

"But, Ben, how came he there?"

"'Ho did it?"

"Why, ma's 'tis wat nobody don't seem nowise to know, nohow. Joel Blim, as 'elped to found 'm, du tell me as Maister Olderoff stank pretty strong o' brimstone!"

"Horror, Ben!"

"'Orreus be the word, ma'am! There be things 'appenin' 'ere o' nights as did 'ot nowise ought! I instance, there be 'e 'owd haunted mill—full o' orrers every night—gashly lights!"

"How so, Ben?"

"Well they flitter 'ere and there—they skips and likewise dances. And ye see, nobody don't never go nor ventur a-nigh the place."

"Ax-cuse me, Ben!" said George, appearing suddenly, "but I see Mr. Pitt ther' 'e other afternoon, along o' one o' the gentlemen."

"Pitt?" repeated my lady. "Why, then, George, was the gentleman Brocklehurst?"

"Ay, my leddy, it were so, ma'm."

"And what did they do there, George?"

"I dunno, my lady, the Viceroy sez 'ee, ma'm, an ordered me off, 'm' leddy."

"That'll du, lad," cried old Ben shrilly. "That'll du, Jarge. I meets old Truffenl Camlo tother day. 'Truffenl, ma'm, says I, 'tdu seem loike 'twas a curse o' the village, surely, as want be took off till justice be done, and' Sir Richard Guyford proved innocent. . . . And talkin' o' S' Richard—I seen 'm 'e other night!"

"Oh?" said Helen, softly questioning, "where, Ben?"

"In the sunk garden, ma'm, a starin' at the chimbleys."

Helen raised hand to rounded bosom and was immediately aware of the tickling, crumpled paper.

"At midnight!" she murmured.

"Why, no, ma'm, it were just gone 10 o'clock b' the church chime."

"And he was staring, you say, at—?"

"The Moat 'Ouse chimbleys ma'm. When I calls out, 'e vanishes afore my eyes—and then another strange thing—look wot 'appens to the captain gen'lman, only last night, as somebody—or some . . . thing took an' throwed 'm down the stairs. And I wants to know—what?"

"A cord, Ben," answered a sleepy yet strangely pleasant voice, and Helen saw Captain Despard smiling at her over the half-door.

The captain's face was perhaps a little paler than usual, and he bore one arm in a sling, otherwise he seemed as languidly assured, as imperturbably serene as usual.

"A cord, sir?" cried old Ben reproachfully. "But—did 'ee see the cord, sir?"

"Nay, or I should have avoided it. But I felt it fairly catch and I found marks of a cord on one of the banisters."

"But who," cried Helen, "who should work such despicable villainy?"

"The captain sighed and shook his head.

"Who knows?" said he gently. "But pray will you not ask me in out o' the sun?"

Here old Ben, meeting the captain's eloquent look, vanished; then the captain, leaning in over the half-door, spoke in softly modulated voice:

"Also, Helen, I desire to talk with you about—our principal, Sir Richard Guyford."

"Our principal?" she questioned.

"Undoubtedly, Helen, for are we not his accomplices after the fact? Did we not suppress the evidence of his signet-ring?"

The captain entered the stable and, seating himself gracefully on the corn-bin, quoth he gently:

"You were so passionate to aid him and I have wondered—why?"

"Because I believed him innocent."

"Happy creature!" murmured the captain. "Your friend! Would you have done as much for any other, for me, Helen? For—Brocklehurst?"

"My lady, being on her feet, swept towards the door even as the old maid, slouched by, pitchfork on shoulder.

"Pray, Helen," sighed the captain, "would you do for any other what you are doing—for him?"

Helen turned, viewed the speaker in wild-eyed amazement.

"I detest riddles, sir," said she loftily. "You must speak plainer."

"Plainer? Is it needful?" he questioned gently. "Yes, upon my life, I do believe it is! Then, Helen, can it be possible you are unaware—that you have no suspicion—?"

And then, with a wild clatter of hoofs, the Marquis galloped into stableyard.

"Alas, Helen—Richard's taken!" he cried. "I met that old fellow Olderoff on the road who tells me they ha' the poor flow fast by th' heels at last!"

"What can be done?" she questioned breathlessly. "Ned, what can we do? Do something, Ned?"

"Ay, faith!" quoth the Marquis, wheeling his eager animal. "I ride now to comfort the poor soul."

"One moment, my lord," said Captain Despard. "Pray when was he taken, and where?"

"Last night, sir, at a small place hard by Newhaven."

"Then, my lord, either this information is false or Sir Richard hath alioce escaped."

"How, sir . . . ha' 'scaped? Pray, wha' d' ye mean?"

"I mean, Marquis, that he is as free as you or I! I saw him—not 10 minutes ago."

"Where, sir—where?" cried the Marquis, glancing about eagerly.

"Ten minutes, say you? Then he can't be far! Pray tell us!"

"No, my lord," answered the captain, smiling, "since I have surprised this gentleman's secret, you must suffer me to keep it secret still."

TOUGH ON COAL BINS

Washington—Siberia sure is a cold country according to Constantin Nikiforoff in a paper published by the University of Minnesota. In some places in an area of 3,500,000 square miles in the northern and eastern parts of the country, the soil is frozen to a depth of 500 feet. The temperature never rises above the freezing point, Nikiforoff says.

RENCHMEN NOT ENTERED IN U. S. NET TOURNAMENT

Big Bill Tilden Given Best Chance to Win Title at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—(AP)—For the first time since 1925, the national tennis championships of the United States will go to someone other than a Frenchman. Not because France's top on world tennis honors has started to weaken, but because not one of the Frenchmen has been able to win the title of the land of the color has seen fit to enter the 25 championships.

With the French "big three"—Lacoste, Borotra and Cochet—out of the picture, prospects are bright for the seventh time. Big Bill had a monopoly on the title from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, but Lacoste was the winner in 1926 and 1927, and Cochet won the title in France's possession last year by defeating Frank Hunter in the final round.

Tilden, seeded first in the tournament, will have no easy path to his seventh national title, but he will not have to dispose of the younger stars at block's way. In his half of the draw are H. W. Austin of England; Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Texas; John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J.; Tambo Abe, of Japan; German Hermann, Cuba, and John Doe, Santa Monica, all seeded players.

Lott heads the list in the lower half with the other seeded players in his half being E. R. Avery and J. S. Liff of England, N. J. Farquharson of South Africa, Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, Fritz Mercier of Bethlehem, Pa., and Frank Hunter.

With a field of 50 seeking the title, the championship will start tomorrow on the west side tennis club's famous courts. The final will be played a week from tomorrow.

PIRATES FINALLY BEAT LUCAS JINX

Only Two Games Are Played in American and National Leagues Thursday

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

In a season that has been their championship hopes blown to the winds by a series of injuries, the Pittsburgh Pirates at least can look with pride upon the fact that they finally have shaken the "Lucas jinx."

Ever since June, 1927, Pirate teams have rolled over and played dead whenever Red Lucas, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, was in the box against them. Last Sunday, however, they managed to win in a 2-inning thriller, 9 to 7. Yesterday they demonstrated that the Red ace no longer can boast of his spook over them for they trounced him, 5 to 1, in the only National League game of the day.

In the only American league game of the day, Cleveland strengthened its hold on third place by bouncing Detroit for a 4-0 loss, in a game aided by rain after five innings of play. The victory enabled Cleveland to increase its margin over the fourth place St. Louis to 2 1/2 games.

Golden Bears Expected To Have Ranking Grid Squad

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

BERKELEY, Cal.—(AP)—Back up at the top again after a football famine that saw them driven to the depths of defeat and disappointment, California's Golden Bears this season begin their gridiron tasks with early prospects of being powerful contenders for both coast conference and intersectional honors.

Little if any change in California's football fundamentals—a strong defensive system—is expected. For the past eight years the teams have been coached to kick and wait for the breaks. Those close to Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price, however, believe he will try this season to develop a faster and more thorough offense, chiefly because of the new rule which makes a fumbled ball dead when recovered by the defense.

A tough coast schedule is made considerably more difficult because of an intersectional game with Pennsylvania in mid-season. After meeting St. Mary's, Santa Clara and Washington State on successive week-ends, the Bears will journey to Philadelphia for a contest with the Quaker eleven, Oct. 19. It will be the first time a coast football team has played a game on the Atlantic seaboard in mid-season.

The football sign-up indicated Coach Price would have a squad of great reserve strength and of the heavy artillery type. The biggest loss over last year is at the tackles, positions vacated by Steve Bancroft and Frank Fitz. The only other line hole to fill is at one end, and two first string men are on hand for that job.

Benny Lom, one of the coast's half-back stars last season, is ready for a bigger and better season. Stanley Barr, halfback, and Lee Eisan, quarterback, are playing their third year. The fullback prospect list includes Clarence Garrity, a regular last year, and Ralston Gill, line plugging luminary of the 1928 freshman team.

A 1928 season, brilliant when compared with the two preceding ones, ended with the blue and gold eleven undefeated in conference play. Two defeats were listed in the records, namely those inflicted by the San Francisco Olympic Club and Georgia Tech. The loss to the club team was incidental and suffered by a reserve squad.

GEORGETOWN NEEDS A GOOD HALFBACK

Coach Lou Little Has Big Squad but Comparatively Light One

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ocean City, N. J.—(AP)—Anyone possessing knowledge of a big punishing halfback lurking undiscovered among the student body of Georgetown University can learn Lou Little's eternal gratitude by speaking up now before it is too late.

Of the very few things Lou would like for his football team this fall this unknown back is the most important. Of course Lou also would be interested in another fast, husky one. But for the time being the job of finding a hammering 200-pounder to lead his squadron of fleet but woefully light ball toters into action has the Georgetown coach more hot and bothered than the blazing sun at this seaside training resort.

With a typically rugged Georgetown schedule ahead, Little would like, for a change, a rugged man who would smash a path for Hudak, Barablis, Mac Zees, Scalsi, Bosak, Hannegan, all speedsters, but averaging less than 160 pounds in weight. Bud O'Hearn, a youngster, may be the answer to a coach's prayer, but even Bud isn't as large as he might be.

Otherwise, the big director of athletics at the Washington university is content with the material. Only four regulars have been graduated from the eleven that beat New York University last fall.

APPRAISE EQUIPMENT OF VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

D. Cross, representative of the American Appraisal company, Milwaukee, is completing his work of appraising furnishings, equipment and furniture of the Appleton vocational school this week. Two weeks ago, C. B. Davis, another representative of the company appraised the value of the school building. A joint report of the two representatives will be submitted as soon as they complete their estimations.

HOLD HEARINGS ON QUARRY SAFETY ORDERS

Madison—(AP)—The industrial commission will hold hearings in Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Green Bay and Wausau, Sept. 10, 11, 12 and 13, respectively, on proposed changes in state safety orders on operation of quarries.

Representatives of employers and employees have recommended the changes to the commission to safeguard further gravel pits prevent premature cave-ins and injuries from falling or rolling stone, and to regulate of explosives.

Prisoner Edits Paper In Walled Journalism School

Leavenworth, Kas.—(AP)—Fredrick A. Cook, erstwhile doctor, explorer and author, is testing the pen's mightiness behind prison walls.

A school of journalism for the training of prisoners, the first of its kind, has been established at the United States penitentiary here by its warden, T. B. White. Dr. Cook, who is serving a 14-year sentence on a charge of using the mails to defraud, is editor of this school's monthly publication, "The New Era."

Dr. Cook has penned a "bill of rights" for the prison's latest branch of vocational training.

In an editorial the man who claimed to have discovered the north pole in 1908 contends that the prison's journalistic school is but part of an "extensive campaign to reawaken the sleeping mentality of 3,500 men" — the penitentiary's population.

His analysis of public affairs, as viewed from a prison, includes these statements:

"A prison school of journalism is new, so new that the announcement will come to most educators as a questionable experiment.

"The press is not independent, as is often claimed — no news service ever can be — because it is planted at the crossroads of life, where all is interdependent.

"Human betterment is all that a fall paper has to offer.... The type of special training which a prison school of journalism can give must resolve itself into a system of adult education, a salvaging of lost schooling."

"Crime is not due to a lack of education, but to an incapacity to foresee the consequences of every act. The warden has this in mind when he seeks to industrialize all prison activities in a trade school.

"Success in this new endeavor depends upon willing cooperation, and cooperation is the password to the wealth of America's economic empire."

London—As a departure from the ordinary, sponge rubber floors are soon to make their appearance. This new type of flooring is said to be superior to any other flooring made from rubber substitute in the point of view of durability and comfort.
